Warns Russ To Halt Airlift

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The Laotian government has threatened to take "appropriate steps" unless the Soviet government stops its airlift to pro-Communist rebels.

The warning to the Soviet Union, sent to the Soviet ambassador in London Monday, was made public shortly after the United States delivered the royal Laotian army its first armed planes.

Four propeller-driven observation planes, each armed with machine guns, were flown here Tuesday. Two other planes and a number of helicopters are also being turned over to Laos by the United States. The aircraft will be flown by Laotian pilots.

• • •

A Laotian spokesman said the planes were needed to check on the movements of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in the north central Plaine des Jarres.

A U.S. spokesman said the delivery of defensive weapons was authorized under the 1954 Geneva agreement giving Laos independence. But protests are certain from the Communist nations supporting the Pathet Lao rebels and the forces of rebel Capt. Kong Le.

• • •

The note said the Soviet airlift to aid the rebels had not stopped despite a protest delivered Dec. 31, and that Soviet planes were continuing a daily delivery at air strips and by parachute "of substantial amounts of war material and other kinds of unauthorized military assistance."

The government charged 10 days ago that about 3,000 soldiers from Communist North Viet Nam invaded Laos, and U.S. intelligence sources later reported Soviet aircraft had brought in a substantial outside Communist force. Tuesday the government charged that Soviet as well as North Vietnamese troops were invading the country. Few Western sources here, however, have believed the reports of invading forces were well-founded.

SUSPECT WINDOW WASHER

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)— A Houston window washer who may have hauled his loot out in a water bucket is a suspect in 14 robberies in a downtown office building.

The robberies in the Cotton Exchange Building were discovered Tuesday when another window washer, Glen Robert Harris, 26, told his employer the man carried out money and loot.

People in the offices checked after notified by police and found about $2,000 in money, bonds and jewels missing.

For Commission Revival—

Report Russ Rebuff U.S. Plan For Laos

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union reportedly has rebuffed a U.S. suggestion that an international control commission for Laos be revived.

The Soviet rejection was said to have been given Tuesday to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter by Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov.

Menshikov held a 40-minute discussion on Laos with Herter at the State Department. The talk was at Menshikov's request.

Britain has led the move for reviving the commission, composed of India, Poland and Canada. The United States is agreeable provided the commission is acceptable to King Savang Vatthana and the royal Lao government of pro-Western Prince Boun Oum.

The Soviet Union claims the ousted government of Prince Souvanna Phouma, a neutralist who has fled Laos in the civil war raging in the Southeast Asia kingdom, is the legal government.

State Department press officer Lincoln White declined to say "yes" or "no" when asked if the discussion had been encouraging. He said Menshikov "came in to discuss the situation in Laos as he sees it from his standpoint."

Menshikov referred to the talks as "a quiet discussion." He said he gave Herter no notes or proposals and U.S. officials said they saw no particular encouragement in his call. Nor would U. S. officials picture the visit as a forerunner of negotiations on Laos.

The State Department confirmed reports that the United States has sent light aircraft—four helicopters and four two-seater, propeller-driven planes—to the Boun Oum government at its request.

A frog's tongue is fastened to the front of his mouth.

Did Ham Radio Contribute To Plane Collision?

NEW YORK (AP)—Did a ham radio operator unknowingly play a part in the Dec. 16 airliner collision over New York City?

The possibility was raised Tuesday at a Civil Aeronautics Board inquiry into the disaster which killed 134 persons.

Edward Lowe, a CAB air safety investigator, said it was possible that an amateur radio operator working near the Colts Neck, N.J., radio navigational transmitter may have interfered with the signal.

He said the CAB planned to ask the Federal Communications Commission for help in the inquiry.

The Colts Neck transmitter, near Red Bank, is one of three radio stations which pilots use to establish navigational fixes at the "Preston" holding area over New Jersey. The ill-fated United Air Lines DC8 jet was supposed to circle "Preston" while waiting for instructions to land at Idlewild Airport.

Instead, it shot past "Preston" at 504 m.p.h. and rammed into a Trans World Airlines four-engine Constellation, killing 128 in both planes and 6 on the ground in Brooklyn.

Welfare Policy--

Kennedy Administration's Plans For 'New Frontier'

Editor's Note — Help for depressed areas, higher teacher pay, more medical care for the aged--these were high in the list of John F. Kennedy's campaign pledges. What will the president-elect do about them after moving into the White House? From a veteran Associated Press political writer here's an estimate of the broad outlines of the Kennedy legislative program. It's the third of five articles on Kennedy plans and problems.

By JACK BELL
AP Political Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — History may tie the tag of "the welfare Congress" on the 87th meeting of the nation's lawmakers if President-elect John F. Kennedy gets his way.

In advance of its actual submission after his inauguration, Kennedy's legislative program is taking shape as one aimed at bettering the economic and social status of millions of Americans.

While he hasn't laid down any specific priorities, Kennedy has said he wants speedy action on measures to provide medical care for the aged, aid for education, housing, minimum wage and aid for chronically depressed areas.

The president-elect has talked of easing interest rates, revising the labor laws, spurring economic development, and expanding national resources projects.

In the controversial field of civil rights he is tied to a platform declaration for congressional passage of a measure to clothe the attorney general-to-be, his brother Robert, with authority to bring federal injunction suits to enforce school desegregation.

This and some other proposals face tough and possibly successful opposition in a Congress the Democrats nominally control but where a coalition of conservatives of both parties has a great deal to say about the final form of legislation.

Outside of Congress, Kennedy has promised executive action to improve the condition of certain segments of the population.

He said repeatedly in the presidential campaign there was much a president could do by the stroke of a pen, such as ending segregation in federal housing programs, furnishing moral leadership and calling a conference of Southern moderates to recommend measures for civil rights progress.

The Kennedy program for aid to education has not taken final form. He supported a bill passed by the Senate in the 86th Congress for a two year $1.86-billion program for school construction and grants for teachers' salaries.

Kennedy Gives Ball Foreign Policy Job

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy today completed the State Department high command with the appointment of a close political associate of Adlai E. Stevenson as undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Kennedy, back at the seaside home of his parents after a week of conferences in New York, Boston and Washington, gave the foreign policy job to George W. Ball, 51, a Democrat who has a background of service in government and now is a Washington attorney specializing in international law. Ball long has been a chief political adviser to Stevenson, the Democratis presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, recently picked by Kennedy to be ambassador to the United Nations.

Selection of Ball was announced by the president-elect as he turned to concentrated work on his Jan. 20 inaugural address. The $20,000 a year job as undersecretary for economic affairs, Ball will be the No. 3 man in the State Department.

Shortly before flying to Palm Beach from Washington Tuesday night, Kennedy also completed the top echelon of the Treasury Department. He named Henry H. Fowler, also a Washington lawyer who has served in a number of government positions, as undersecretary of the treasury.

Fowler was picked by Kennedy after consultation with secretary of the treasury-designate Douglas Dillon, now undersecretary of state in the outgoing Eisenhower administration. Robert V. Roosa, New York banker, has been named Treasury undersecretary for monetary affairs.

Kennedy also announced the appointment of Angier Biddle Duke as chief of protocol in the new administration. Duke, 45, formerly was a Foreign Service officer in Argentina and Spain, and now is president of the Council on Inter-American Affairs, a private organization, and a member of the New York City Executive Committee for the United Nations.

Berserk Guard Kills 4, Self At Navy Building

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government building guard went berserk today, shot down four persons and killed himself.

Two of his four victims died instantly. The others were critically wounded.

The dead:

John Pledger, 40, a uniformed guard at the main Navy building, Constitution Ave. and 18th St., who took his own life at the end of his shooting spree. Pledger was a civilian employe of the General Services Administration which has custodian duties for all government buildings.

Pledger's estranged wife, Zelma, 32.

Dr. Monroe G. Gregory, 50, of Annapolis, Md.

The wounded:

Augustus Valentine, 37, a coworker of Mrs. Pledger in the Navy Bureau of Ships, reported in critical condition at George Washington University Hospital.

Theodore Wells, 38, an employe in the same office, reported in undetermined condition but conscious at the same hospital.

Police reported the shootings started shortly after 9 a.m. at a temporary building behind the main Navy building. Pledger, wearing his blue guard's uniform, walked into his wife's office. Police said they are not certain of what conversation may have taken place but the 6-foot, 200-pound guard had two guns and started shooting.

An undetermined number of bullets were fired in Mrs. Pledger's office where she was fatally wounded and her two co-workers were wounded.

After this, police said, Pledger got into his own automobile and drove to Dr. Gregory's office several blocks away.

Inspector Joseph W. Shimon said Pledger walked through the reception room, passed two waiting patients and a cleaning woman, and entered the treatment room.

OFFICERS SEE RED IN LICENSE MIX-UP

CHICAGO (AP) — Indiana and Illinois law enforcement officers are beginning to see red—on nearly every 1961 auto license plate.

Both states are issuing plates with white lettering on red backgrounds.

The mix-up was viewed as a problem by law enforcement officers, particularly in border counties. Sgt. Stephen Ranich of the Indiana State Police, Schererville, predicted "utter confusion" for officers attempting to obtain reports from witnesses to accidents.

Charles F. Carpentier, Illinois secretary of state, said the choice of colors was a coincidence. He said he will ask the National Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators to review state color choices in the future.

Dillon Not To Request Tax Cut Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Douglas Dillon, selected to be secretary of the Treasury in the Kennedy administration, said today he has no intention now of recommending a temporary tax cut to give the economy a lift.

He also told the Senate Finance Committee at a hearing on his appointment that it would be entirely up to Congress to decide whether to delegate authority to the president to raise or lower taxes.

And, in reply to questions about the drain on U.S. gold as a result of the adverse international balance of payments, he said he believed the problem could be solved in a way that would not adversely affect the economy of the free world.

Dillon said, however, that he did not want to discuss in public sessions the steps that might be taken.

The hearing was the first by a Senate committee on any of the Cabinet appointments announced by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

The Foreign Relations Committee plans a hearing Thursday on a second top Cabinet figure, Dean Rusk, designated as secretary of state.

Orville L. Freeman, Kennedy's choice for secretary of agriculture, goes before the Senate Agriculture Committee Friday.

These sessions are informal since Kennedy cannot submit appointments until he is sworn in Jan. 20.

But, following past precedent, Democratic leaders hope to have all 10 Cabinet choices before the appropriate committees between now and the inauguration, and then have them confirmed almost as soon as their names are sent up formally.

Fidel May Say Cuban Strength Scared Off U. S.

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro soon may tell Cubans that the strength of his people's army has frightened off the American aggressors he claimed would invade Cuba before Jan. 20.

Government-controlled press, radio and television continued to trumpet warnings that invasion would come before President Eisenhower turns over the White House to John F. Kennedy.

Big headlines still denounced the U.S. Navy maneuvers in the Caribbean and the visit Monday of the supercarrier Franklin D. Roosevelt to the base on Guantanamo Bay.

But the rank-and-file defenders of the island seemed to be losing some of their enthusiasm for the 24-hour alert.

More and more regular army soldiers are appearing in Havana. Some were relieving militiamen, indicating the part of the thousands called up in the latest invasion scare were returning to factory and farm work.

Castro's claim to have scared off the United States again may come Friday night, when Cuban labor organizations will hold another huge demonstration before the presidential palace. The prime minister presumably will address the meeting.

The Cuban News Agency said in a dispatch from Puerto Rico that more than 100 anti-Castro Cubans had taken refuge at the U.S. base and that some were being flown to Puerto Rico. There was no confirmation or denial from U.S. officials at the base.

Demonstrations for and against Castro continued in other Latin-American centers.

Pro- and anti-Castro groups battled in the streets of Montevideo, Uruguay, Tuesday night in anticipation of a government decision on future relations with the Cuban regime. Several persons suffered minor injuries, and many were arrested.

Pro-Castro groups demonstrated in downtown Buenos Aires, Argentina. They burned effigies of Uncle Sam, broke a window of the U.S. Information Agency and stoned a branch of the First National City Bank of New York. About a dozen persons were arrested.

CALIFORNIA TAXES HIGH

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)— Californians coughed up $12.6 billion in local, state and federal taxes last year. That was about $800 per person.

The figure was announced by the State Board of Equalization, which noted it was nearly triple the total paid in the 1949-50 fiscal year.

Three Convicted Murderers Come To Aid Of Boy

CHICAGO (AP) — Three men facing the electric chair on murder convictions have come to the aid of an 8-year-old boy who also is in the shadow of a death sentence.

The three men were among 36 inmates of Cook County jail who donated blood Tuesday for John De Marie. Doctors said the boy is doomed unless an operation to correct a congenital heart condition is successful.

The prisoners responded to a plea by the youth's parents who were required to find donors to supply 30 pints of blood. The blood was needed to replenish supplies to be used in the operation.

Gerald Nemke, sentenced to die for the rape-slaying of a 16-year-old girl, said:

"I'm 18, only 10 years older than the boy. I wanted to give him a break—a chance to have all the things I probably won't have."

Vincent Ciucci, scheduled to die Feb. 10 for murdering his 9-year-old son, said he wanted to "do something good for somebody."

Paul Cramp, 30, who has spent eight years appealing his death sentence for killing a plant guard during a holdup, related:

"I think anyone would help a kid. So when they asked I told them I was going to surprise them—show that even a man convicted of murder was sensitive to the needs of others."

Dispute Clouds Prospect For Filibuster Vote

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leadership move to sidetrack a fight over strengthening the Senate's antifilibuster rule fueled fresh controversy today and left prospects for a vote in doubt.

A motion to refer the dispute to the Senate Rules Committee for study was offered late Tuesday by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana with the backing of Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

But liberals of both parties rose in protest and Mansfield's attempt to obtain agreement to vote on the motion Friday was blocked.

Ever since the Senate met Jan. 3 it has been caught up in a dispute over whether to change its rules to make it easier to break a filibuster. It now takes a two-third majority of senators voting.

Mansfield, in moving to refer the issue to the Rules Committee for hearings, said he wanted to avoid a long, disruptive fight at the start of the session that would delay action on President-elect John F. Kennedy's legislative program.

As chairman of the Rules Committee, he pledged to leave no stone unturned to bring back for action later in the session a measure to place a tighter curb on filibusters.

Leaders of a bipartisan group of 23 senators backing a proposal to permit debates to be limited by the vote of 51 senators, or a majority of the 100 members, protested this course.

They argued that any change in rules recommended by the Rules Committee was likely to run into a Southern filibuster that could not be shut off except by a two-thirds majority.

Their fight for action now is based on the contention that at the outset of a new Congress a filibuster against a change in Senate rules can be halted by majority vote.

Ike Agrees To Be Sole Speaker At GOP Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has taken congressional Republicans off a political spot by agreeing to be their principal—and only—speaker at a June party fund-raising dinner.

Eisenhower's scheduled appearance at an affair honoring all Republican members of Congress probably will mark his first political task after he leaves the White House next week.

When they shifted their dinner date from May to June to suit the retiring president's convenience and got his agreement to speak, congressional sponsors breathed a sigh of relief.

They had a star attraction without having to choose between any of the potential 1964 contenders for the party's presidential nomination.

Although they are welcome to attend if they want to, sponsors said they are not issuing special invitations to retiring Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a third possible contender, is one of the sponsors of the meeting as chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

Secret Tape Records Hoffa, Mobster Talk Investigators Report

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa may get a chance today to answer testimony that he advised a mobster it is all right to rob the union—but don't get caught.

A secretly made recording was produced as evidence Tuesday by the Senate Investigations subcommittee which is holding hearings on alleged dealings between Hoffa and New York mobster Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo. Investigators identified the recording as a conversation Corallo had with two officials of New York Teamsters Local 239.

Corallo is a former vice president of Local 239. The subcommittee contends he still runs it with the help of stooges.

The recording was made June 30, 1959, almost a year after Corallo ostensibly had resigned his union office.

Jerome S. Adlerman, the subcommittee counsel, said the group wants to quiz Hoffa about the purported conversation but wants to hear some other witnesses first.

The playback by subcommittee Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., apparently came as a shock to Mack Tane, business agent of Local 239, and Bernard Stein, secretary-treasurer of the local. Both refused to answer questions pleading possible self-incrimination.

Seated at the witness table, they heard loud, scratchy sounding voices alleged to be theirs, talking in a New York City apartment the district attorney's squad had "bugged."

New York police detectives Edward Straub and Natalie Laurendi testified the recorded voices were those of Corallo, Stein and Tane, with Stein and Tane relaying instructions from Hoffa.

The subcommittee is taking up where the old Senate rackets committee left off when it went out of business last March after three stormy years of investigating Hoffa and others. Hoffa has been acquitted in two federal court trials. He is awaiting a third trial on mail fraud charges.

EXPECT LINGERING DEATH FOR LATEST IKE NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A lingering death was expected today for most of the latest batch of nominations sent to the Senate by President Eisenhower.

The Democratic-controlled Senate is expected to kill the vast majority of appointments by simply refusing to act on them until the Republican president's term expires Jan. 20.

The list included 1,160 postmasters, federal judges, assistant department secretaries, members of various regulatory agencies and other appointments. Four of the postmaster appointments were from Illinois.

President-elect John F. Kennedy is expected to withdraw almost all these appointments soon after he takes office.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Eisenhower submitted some of the names because he had given them recess appointments last fall and it was necessary to re-submit these names to protect their salaries.

Students Make No Protest

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Two teenage Negroes quietly sat down in classes with white students today after federal court rulings swept aside nearly two centuries of segregation at the University of Georgia.

Charlayne A. Hunter, 18, and Hamilton E. Holmes, 19, trudged along the oak and elm lined walkways to psychology and zoology classes respectively.

No crowds bothered them. There was just the usual flow of students making their way to the 9 a.m. classes in a score of buildings spread out over an area of more than two miles.

Some of the white boys and girls cast curious glances at the two Negroes. Others paid them no attention. Some spoke to them. It was just another day starting at one of the nation's higher educational centers.

• • •

While all was quiet in the university town, there were rumblings in Atlanta of further displeasure with integration on any level.

House Speaker George L. Smith and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. expressed the opinion that the present appropriations act automatically cuts off funds to the university when integrated. But regardless of their views, normal operations proceeded.

GET LOW BID FOR CONSTRUCTION OF PRISON IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO (AP) —The General Services Administration has received a low base bid of $7,417,000 for construction of a federal prison near Marion, Ill.

Work on the maximum security penitentiary was delayed in October when previous bids opened by the GSA exceeded the sum available for construction. The new low bidder was Blount Brothers Construction Co. of Montgomery, Ala. No bids have been accepted, the GSA said Tuesday.

Congress appropriated $10 million for the prison. Construction bids last year exceeded the money remaining after preliminary land preparation.

The government said it would eliminate certain proposed features of the prison to keep costs within about $8 million. Walls and other security items would be unaltered, however, the government added.

Insects, which have no lungs, breathe through tubes running all through their bodies.

Negro Students Expect No Serious Violence

By KATHRYN JOHNSON

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—"So far I haven't felt any fear—even when students are crowding around me," said Hamilton Holmes, one of the two Negro students selected to end the 175-year segregation at the University of Georgia.

"I have faith that they won't turn to violence," he added.

"Several students came over while I was registering, introduced themselves, wished me luck and said if I needed any help, to call on them," Hamilton said Tuesday.

Gov. Ernest Vandiver's statement that he was closing the university in Athens touched off a noisy student demonstration Monday night.

Students yelled and booed as Holmes, 19, and Charlayne A. Hunter, 18, went through the registration process. The Atlanta Negroes, admitted by a federal court ruling, were trailed by large groups as they moved about the campus.

Several students yelled, "nigger go home."

"The average college student is intelligent enough to know and realize that changes are inevitable, and that they'll have to change with the times if they're not to be left behind," Hamilton said.

"I know we'll encounter some trouble, but I don't anticipate too much from students—I think most of it will come from outside," he added.

Miss Hunter says she doesn't think her classmates will be mean to her. She said she talked with some of them and got the "impression that they wouldn't be hostile."

Miss Hunter was graduated from Turner High School in Atlanta in 1959 where she was president of the honor society. She wants to study journalism at the university.

Her father is Maj. Charles Hunter, a U.S. Army chaplain stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas. Her mother, Althea Hunter, is a secretary for an Atlanta real estate company.

Holmes was a Turner High classmate of Miss Hunter, and also an honor student. He plans to study medicine at the college.

His father, Alfred E. Holmes, owns a tombstone company in Atlanta. His mother is a school teacher in the Atlanta public schools and specializes in teaching children with sight difficulties. His grandfather was a doctor.

Dilemma Of Laos

Important differences exist between the United States and its British-French allies as to how to deal with the rising Communist threat to the independence of Laos in southeast Asia.

These concern the kind of government that should be supported in Laos, and the extent of outside participation in the current civil strife.

On this latter point, Britain and France have tended to dismiss as the propaganda of the present shaky pro-Western government the charges of direct intervention by Red North Vietnamese and other Communists.

Until recently, the American rebuttal was confined to generalized charges. Now, however, we are offering hard evidence—down to aircraft serial numbers—of a Soviet airlift of war materiel and some personnel to assist Red elements within Laos.

Our inquiry and reconnaissance indicates this airlift has been substantial and continuous. And while we do not spell out the numbers involved, we make the flat statement that a good many North Vietnamese have been brought in.

This, of course, is the critical part of the charge. For what has been most feared all along was another invasion, North Korea style. Proof of it is much harder to come by in Laos, a jungle country with few roads. Vietnamese or Red Chinese, wearing no military attire, presumably can slip easily back and forth across the Laotian frontier to the east.

The chances are that there have been plenty of invaders. But we can only talk about those we can identify. Nevertheless, when we succeed in doing that, the British and French ought to be willing to accept the evidence.

Their preference for a neutralist government in Laos instead of a clearly pro-Western one is based on fear that a really sharp division will produce a wearing, costly civil war that will compare in length with the postwar fighting in Indochina, Malaya and Algeria.

We fear that their caution, both as to the make-up of the Laotian government and as to the intervention of Reds from the outside, may only play into the hands of Peiping and Moscow and in the end cost the West high strategic stakes in crucial Laos.

But in the field of bolder action, there certainly is no easy course. Military intervention on our part would be extremely difficult, with no guarantee of success. Support for any particular Laotian government can go only so far.

This much we do know: We must act with firmness and speed when effective action is possible. Timidity and hesitancy are the beckoning fingers that will surely embolden the Communists in this newest adventure in conquest.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—For eight years a take-charge man with big eyeglasses and more than enough chin did an extraordinary job of making his boss, the President of the United States, look good.

Now James C. Hagerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary with a beaut of a temper and so much self-assurance he could hold a surplus sale, is leaving.

When he turned in his resignation, Eisenhower said he had been invaluable. And indeed he was.

Eisenhower admittedly didn't do much newspaper reading. Hagerty a 51-year-old grandfather and former newspaperman, was to a large extent the President's eyes and ears.

He was more than that. He not only was a buffer between the President and the press to a degree unmatched in this century, he was also Eisenhower's mouthpiece.

But he was no blabbermouth. He never got his devotion to news mixed up with his loyalty to Eisenhower. He never said anything to embarrass his boss. He didn't make slips.

Hagerty was a master of two things which a lot of press relations men never learn: He paid attention to details and informed himself on problems he had to handle.

Seem simple? It's amazing how many people in Washington don't do either.

In time Hagerty became Eisenhower's scout, a kind of private emissary, who went ahead of the President when he planned a trip abroad and arranged for his safety and convenience.

He became such a strong and established figure in the group around Eisenhower that he was almost certainly an advisor on policy.

Hagerty was unchallenged within the administration as emperor of his special domain from the time he took charge of the news about Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955.

His forthrightness in keeping the country informed at that critical time was widely admired. He seemed a lot less forthright when Eisenhower had his ileitis operation.

Hagerty's attention to detail goes away back beyond the time he went to work in the White House. He was press secretary to New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey when the latter ran for the presidency in 1944 and 1948.

He was a tough, efficient operator then. Dewey turned him over to Eisenhower when the general became a candidate. As it turned out, this was one of the best things Dewey did for Eisenhower.

Now Hagerty goes to the American Broadcasting Company as vice president to build up its news reporting. He succeeds John Daly.

Unlike Daly who did broadcasting himself, Hagerty will stay out of sight, try to build up a staff, and let the staff do the talking.

Not talking will be a switch for him.

Light Exercise Can Ward Off the 'Loafer's Heart'

BY H. T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written For
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The "loafer's heart" and the "detrained heart" have recently engaged the attention of Dr. Wilhelm Raab of the University of Vermont.

In Dr. Raab's opinion, with which I am in complete accord, each of these penalties of "soft living" contributes significantly to circulation strains.

In the disturbed and restless world in which we all live not even the most coddled of us can wholly escape the physical, mental and emotional stresses to which we are exposed, whether directly or indirectly.

With each of these stresses, an additional load is imposed on our circulatory systems. The pulse rate speeds. The blood pressure rises. The heart muscle is called on to pump an extra amount of blood. And the coronary vessels are required to transport additional supplies of oxygen to meet the needs of the overworked pump.

Now the well conditioned heart responds in stride to these emergencies. Much like a trained athlete, it speeds and slows, tenses and relaxes, and adjusts and re-adjusts with the ease of "the daring young man on the flying trapeze."

But the "loafer's heart" or the "detrained heart" gets a late start, bumps and bucks like a cold motor in subzero weather and then is unable to throttle down until long after the challenging situation has come and gone.

In my experience the "detrained heart" of one who was formerly accustomed to regular exercise is in greater danger than the heart of the loafer whose daily exertions rarely exceeded the bare minimums required for strolls to and from the dining room.

The young mother, who engaged in competitive sport at high school or college, can't quite realize that she hasn't the strength and endurance she once had before the baby was born. And the high school or college letter man, who now spends his time behind a desk or the wheel of his car, can't resist a challenge to his prowess.

Neither hesitates to perform a heavy household chore, sometimes with disastrous results. And, on a holiday, the ex-athlete, still wearing a sweater adorned with the school or college letter, gets his "come-uppance" from an attempted swim across the lake, a five-set tennis match with some lanky fledgling, or a 'rastling bout with a chunky youngster who turns out to have been the intercollegiate champion in his class.

Of course, the answer to the "loafer's heart" or the "detrained heart" is regular exercise of a not-too-strenously competitive nature. Walking, gardening, dancing, calisthenics, family tennis, a relaxed round of golf or romps with younger children tend to keep the muscles fit and the figure trim.

Contrariwise, the lures of rocking chairs and of sofas that give a view of TV screens are open invitations to flabby muscles, a sloppy heart beat and the development of a "bay window."

As the chaps who ran shell games at county fairs used to remark "You pays your money and you takes your choice."

House Rules Committee Is Congress' Whipping Boy

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Congressional defenders of the House Rules Committee maintain there's an awful lot of misinformation and malarkey in the criticisms of what it does and does not do.

Even Prof. Samuel H. Beer of Harvard, president of Americans for Democratic Action — which wants the rules committee reformed—says he would have no objections to it if it is used as a responsible arm of the Congressional leaders and the White House.

Under its present chairman, Judge Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), the committee is the favorite whipping boy in Congress. Congressional leaders and chairman of committees who don't want to report out new bills for which there is some public demand blame their own shortcomings on it. And individual congressmen who haven't a chance to get some constituent's or pressure group's pet project through Congress like to say it's the rules committee's fault.

The 12-member committee—eight Democrats and four Republicans in the last Congress—is admittedly dominated by conservativatives. One plan to liberalize it in the Kennedy administration is to enlarge it and appoint enough "New Frontiersmen" so that its majority will clear more pioneering legislation.

Americans for Democratic Action held a one-day meeting in Washington at year's end to cry for reform of the rules committee, along with repeal of Senate Rule 22, under which filibusters are conducted against civil rights and similar legislation.

Examples Most Frequently Mentioned of the committee's sidetracking of progressive legislation in the last Congress include minimum wage raise, federal aid to school construction, aid to depressed areas, medical care for the aged, and housing.

Those are the five measures which Kennedy wants the new Congress to act on first. A look at the records, however, shows the committee not solely responsible for the sorry record of the last Congress in these fields.

The committee held hearings and granted two rules on minimum wage bills. This legislation died in conference because the Senate would not accept the House version, and vice versa. But the committee had nothing to do with that.

There were three school construction bills before the last Congress. The Senate wouldn't accept the House bill and the committee, knowing that the Senate bill faced a veto from Eisenhower, refused to give it a rule for House consideration.

What really killed the measure, however, was a House amendment which would have denied funds to school districts not in compliance with federal court desegration orders.

On social security amendments including medical care for the aged, rules committee approved the bill which was referred to it for clearance. But this bill was watered down in the House and further amended in the Senate. The final bill satisfied few people and isn't working well so far.

A revised bill will have to be offered in the new Congress. But responsibility for this can't be placed on the rules committee.

The House Rules Committee must bear responsibility for sending an omnibus housing bill back to committee for revision. The reason given was that there were already 100,000 authorized public housing units for which there was no demand and that there were three billion dollars in slum clearance funds still unused.

This action was in line with one of the rules committee's duties to prevent passage of faulty legislation. When a revised, scaled down, stopgap housing bill was reported back to the committee at the end of the session, it was cleared for action.

Depressed area redevelopment legislation, cleared by the rules committee and subsequently passed, was vetoed by Eisenhower. When the Senate failed to override the veto the measure died. But this was no fault of the rules committee.

Satistically, The Rules Committee in the 86th Congress held hearings on 124 bills and granted rules on 119. The five it denied rules on were school construction, omnibus housing, educational TV, and amendments to the foreign and library service acts. The last two were subsequently passed.

On Senate bills, House Rules Committee had requests for hearings on 19, of which four were passed on the consent calendar before the rules committee could act. On the other 15, rules were granted on 14 and a rule was denied on the first depressed areas bill, though a later measure was approved.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Those famous trombones are coming to the screen, all 76 of them, with 110 cornets close at hand.

They'll be followed by rows and rows of the finest virtuosos and "Music Man" Robert Preston, too. The vastly popular musical is reaching the shooting stage at Warner Brothers, where plans are in the capable hands of Morton Da Costa.

He is the man who transformed the Meredith Willson saga of early-day Iowa into a stage hit, and he will be directing the picture, too. A plain-spoken man with a mop of rust-colored hair and a face full of freckles, he gave a report on the film project.

"It won't be one of those terribly long pictures," he said. "It will run around 2½ hours, which is enough. After all, most Broadway shows run only 2½ hours, including an intermission. You can't hold an audience's attention much longer.

"The film version will follow the same line of the play, though it will be opened up. There were a lot of things I couldn't do on the stage because of limitations of space and time. When Bob sings '76 Trombones,' we'll take it out of the school gymnasium and into the street. Likewise, the final chase can be done all over town."

This may come as a blow to Iowa pride, but the entire film will be shot in Burbank. (California is an Iowa colony, anyway.)

"I thought of shooting it back there, but it would be impossible to duplicate the 1912 flavor," said Da Costa.

"It happens that Warners has a very good Midwestern town set. With 90 days of shooting and many intricate numbers, I'd rather be close to the studio's facilities."

To nearly everyone's delight, Bob Preston will be repeating as Harold Hill. But he was no shoo-in for the film role.

"We had a lot of big stars who wanted to do it—Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby, Kirk Douglas, Burt Lancaster, etc.," the director said. "The studio was inclined to sign a bigger name than Bob. But I held out for him. This is a role that you had to feel in your stomach, that you'd have to play at least four weeks on the stage before you could really do it."

World Can Be Made Brighter By Right Kind Of Day Dreaming

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Does the world sometimes seem too big for you?

Well, it is.

Do you sometimes feel small, futile and lost—an overwhelmed human zero in an inhuman wilderness called civilization?

Well, you probably are.

But cheer up. Every normal person feels that way part of the time. But there is no need to feel like that all the time.

There is a way out. Become a day dreamer—at whatever time of day you need it most.

Some people sneer at day dreamers as impractical. They are usually unimaginative people who had only one dream in their lives. They put this dream into harness and beat it with a whip until it got them what they wanted out of living.

Then they discover that wasn't really all they wanted from life after all. So they lose their faith in dreams of any kind. In their own frustration they try to knock down everybody else's dreams. Such people are knotheads.

There are two types of day dreamers, and it is essential that you become the right one.

The boss walks by your desk and says, "Hello." If you automatically wonder, "What did he mean by that—is he going to fire me?" you are a fearful day dreamer. This is the wrong kind. You will dwell only in dreams of dread, and nothing is more pitiful.

But if the boss says "Hello" to you, and you immediately begin to figure what changes you'll make in company policy when he takes you in as partner, you are on the right track. You are a constructive day dreamer. Dreams give you security and hope, and that's what dreams are for.

Here is how the successful day dreamer operates in fantasy:

He sips a glass of cheap red wine in a cheap restaurant, and at once becomes a Paris boulevardier dawdling over champagne.

He may be only a clerk, but if they put two telephones on his desk to answer, he assumes in his head the role of Wall Street tycoon.

He bets $2 on the long-shot in the first race at the track, and plans to parlay his winnings by betting them on every other long-shot of the day. Sometime, somewhere, every long-shot will come in first, and if this should be the right track and the right day he will go home a multimillionaire.

The great virtue of day dreaming is that you can be anybody, go anywhere, do anything—but escape any responsibility for your decisions or actions. You make of life a game—a pretense guiltless of hypocrisy.

There is only one danger. The day dreamer knows true happiness only if he doesn't try to translate his impossible dreams into deeds. That way lies disaster.

It is all right for a mouse to day dream that it is a dinosaur only so long as it doesn't try to attack a cat.

Oil wells more than 15,000 feet deep cost 29 times as much to drill as shallow ones of 2,500 to 3,750 feet.

The Mature Parent

Defining Child's Nature May Curb Development

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

In her childhood when other children were told they were lazy talented, stubborn or fat, Mrs. G was told that she was "helpful." When she cleared the dinner table, found her father's eyeglasses, helped her little sister into her high chair, someone would comment admiringly on these services—and her mother would say:

Yes, Cora has always been a helpful child, not always thinking of herself like most youngsters nowadays."

Now Mrs. G as a child did not produce this "helpfulness" out of pure altruism. The truth was, she wanted praise. But because she constantly was told that she wanted only to be "helpful," she couldn't know this.

Soon she lost contact with all her wishes to get as well as to give and learned to make helpfulness her chief reason for living. Just as you and I might identify ourselves with one quality like fatness or bad temper or charm as though we possessed no others, Mrs. G got to thinking of herself as nothing but helpful.

Today, a widow, her children grown, this exclusively helpful idea of herself is making trouble for her. With nobody around to be helpful to, Mrs. G has lost her reason for living. At 60, she is seriously considering entering a home for the aged.

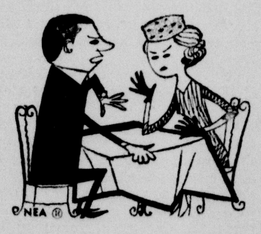

We parents can do great damage by defining children's natures for them.

If Jimmy refuses to hang up his coat, let us—if we must—define this action as stubborn. But let us not, in the name of humility, call him a stubborn child. We just don't know enough about him to so define his nature for him. If we do insist on doing so, we can end by confining Jimmy in one quality of character so that he loses access to the rest of it.

All of us have known people who seem to think of themselves as one thing only. We've known beautiful women who start going to pieces as soon as their beauty begins to fade. We've known fat people who can't seem to get their minds off this one aspect of their bodies. We've known witty people who will wound their best friends to make a joke.

These are people who suffer from what psychiatrists call an "alienated identity"—a segregated and limited idea of themselves that locks them away from the rest of their nature. Like Mrs. G, they live in only one room of the multiple qualities which compose our wonderful human nature.

Give Hubby Insight to 'Why' of What You Buy

In today's mail is a letter from a reader who feels guilty because she has been less than frank with her husband in money matters.

For years, she says, she has had secret charge accounts which have nearly driven her crazy. She has to stretch her household allowance to pay a little on this account and a little on that one.

This has come about, she says, because she dreaded the long discussions that always followed when she asked her husband for money for this or that special purchase.

Her feelings of guilt are understandable—but she certainly shouldn't feel alone in her deception. There may not be a lot of women who have charge accounts their husbands don't know exist.

But an awful lot of wives do mighty fancy juggling of household money, rather than tell their husbands exactly what they spent for a hat, a new sofa, or a party dress.

It isn't that they are married to skinflints, either. Most of them aren't. Then why do they feel they have to do all that financial finagling?

One reason is probably that they think a man wouldn't understand the necessity for some of the things they buy. What looks "perfectly all right" to a man often looks out-of-date or absolutely hopeless to a woman. Another woman would understand perfectly—but would a man?

The other reason is that the clothes, furniture, and knick-knacks a woman's heart yearns for are often so expensive that her common sense tells her they are more than she can afford.

She expects her husband to be bowled over by the price, because she herself thinks it is unreasonable. But still she wants what she wants and so she begins to figure how she might manage to "finance" it, without coming right out and asking for the money.

Perhaps, the best way for wives to avoid the temptation to be less than frank about money matters is to take their husbands with them when they shop. Men who habitually shop with their wives don't have to be hoodwinked about price tags

Applesauce Cone Cake Is Dramatic

WORTHY of being placed on a pedestal is this very regal applesauce cone cake. And then let the eating fun begin.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here's a prima donna dessert—dramatic, eye catching and very, very appealing to its audience. Encores guaranteed.

Applesauce Cone

1 package white cake mix
1 package lemon pie filling
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup orange juice
2 cups canned applesauce
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Slivered toasted almonds.

Make the cake according to package directions in two layers, reserving one of the layers for future use. Follow directions on package for making the lemon pie filling and reserve half of the filling for use on another day.

Soften gelatin in orange juice 5 minutes. Dissolve over boiling water. Combine applesauce, sugar, grated orange and lemon rind. Add the dissolved gelatin and mix well. Pour mixture into a cone-shaped mold or into a 2-cup mixing bowl and chill until set.

Place one of the cake layers on a cake platter. Spread one-half of the lemon pie filling over the layer, then invert the molded applesauce and put it in the center of the cake. Top with whipped cream, flavored and sweetened if desired. Sprinkle with the almonds.

The second layer can be made into a dessert by topping it with whipped cream sprinkled liberally with angel flake coconut. The other half of the pie filling can be served as a pudding or used to fill small pastry shells.

Driver Captured In Scott Fined $50 Tuesday

Carl C. Perkins of Summer Hill, Ill., was fined $25 for driving too fast for conditions and $25 for failure to give true information at the scene of an accident Tuesday in the police magistrate's court.

Perkins was involved in an auto collision at the South Diamond and West Morton intersection Tuesday at 3:58 p.m. He smashed his DeSoto into the rear of a 1955 Chevrolet stopped at the red light on Morton. Driving the Chevrolet was Beverly A. Stovall, 1124 West Walnut, Jacksonville. Both autos were headed west on Morton.

Perkins stopped and gave false information to Mrs. Stovall and left the scene of the accident before city police arrived to investigate the wreck. Word was sent over the new radio system to stop Perkins. Sheriff Martin of Scott county spotted Perkins' DeSoto four miles west of Winchester. Perkins was stopped and held by Scott authorities until State Trooper Ryan arrived to bring him back to Jacksonville where he was fined in the police magistrate's court.

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There seems sure to be a tint of gold in President Eisenhower's last State of the Union message Wednesday and in his final budget next Monday.

The problems of the loss of gold and its running mate, confidence in the U.S. dollar, haven't gone away just because prices for the metal on the London free market simmered down after October's spectacular flurry.

The gold outflow continues, despite U.S. Treasury steps to stabilize its world price and calm fears about the dollar's status.

The basic causes for the outflow in gold will show up in the new budget — in the overseas spending asked for defense and aid of other nations, in any policy announced toward U.S. private investment abroad, and in the probable chances of getting a balance in federal outgo and income which would further bolster confidence in the dollar.

Other causes, outside our direct control, will remain in maneuverings abroad. These include the desire of private hoarders to buy the metal as a hedge against the still rumored and vigorously denied devaluation of the U.S. dollar, and even the game the Soviet Union may be playing with its own big supply of gold overhanging the market.

The Soviets can keep the supply of gold on the free market smaller by withholding sales of their gold. They usually sell gold to meet their own trading deficits with Western nations. When they don't sell gold they help to keep the gold supply thin, and this means the price can be bid up easily when private hoarders around the world want it enough.

Or the Soviet Union could dump gold on the market and disrupt it for the time being by undercutting prices — although this would help the U.S. Treasury by drying up demand for its metal held at the official price of $35 an ounce.

Reports from European financial markets indicate the Soviets haven't been doing anything about gold for three months. And one of the things the international financial markets is watching, and probably the U.S. Treasury also, is what the Soviet Union is doing or seems likely to do.

The three-year deficit and the accompanying loss of gold has given rise in some foreign quarters to beliefs that the United States eventually may have to devalue the dollar—that is, make it worth less in gold by hiking the price of gold. Those believing this have bought gold for their private hoards.

Both the old and the incoming U.S. administrations say devaluation isn't even being considered. But both agree that something must be done to cut the annual dollar-payment deficits.

One way is to increase our exports—but these now are running ahead of imports by around $5 billion a year. Another is to cut spending abroad for foreign aid and on military and diplomatic spending. We have another task force in West Germany asking it to help shoulder some of this load.

The upcoming presidential message may give clues as to how we are faring and what more we hope to do in balancing our payments with the rest of the world.

EXPANDING CAST

NEW YORK (AP)—Roles are sometimes eliminated from shows in these days of high production costs, but "Under the Yum-Yum Tree" added one player to the cast several weeks after opening on Broadway.

Charles Forsythe is the actor employed to portray the part of a milkman which Author Lawrence Roman wrote into the script for increased comedy effect.

NEW 'MUSIC MAN' TOUR

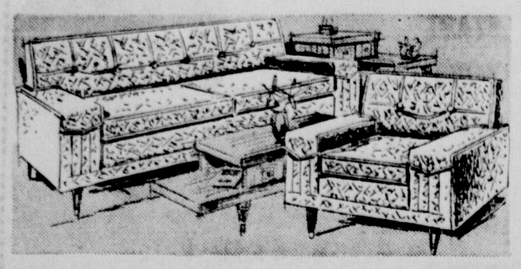

NEW YORK (AP) — A second touring company of "The Music Man" may hit the road next season, to cash in on audience interest prior to 1962 release of the film version.

The current traveling unit, which set out in 1958, concentrates engagements in large cities. The second group would be aimed at smaller communities.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

SOUTH PLAYS FOR 10 TRICKS

BY OSWALD JACOBY

South's 16 point hand is a perfect opening no-trump whether you play 15-17, 16-18, or 15-18 as your no-trump range and North's 10 point hand is an automatic raise to game.

Of course, 26 points does not always produce game and if East and West can get together on double dummy defense South will lose five tricks before he gains the lead.

However, West has a very proper five of spades opening lead and East's ten will lose to South's king or jack.

At rubber bridge South will have no problem about what to do. He will run like a scared rabbit and take his four diamonds and four clubs.

What should he do at duplicate? He can see that his three no-trump contract is normal and that everyone else will probably be playing that same contract and against the same lead. Hence, if he settles for nine tricks he will wind up with an average score.

What is the play for 10 tricks?

It is to return the spade. If West takes the ace and shifts to a heart South will go down and get a very bad score. But West is not likely to make that play and South should certainly lead the spade right back and gamble his contract against that overtrick.

Overweight Is Top Problem Of Population

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Medical experts comment on obesity, strawberry birth marks, and "substitute nerves."

Resolution

For 1961, the American Heart Association urges everyone to resolve to put and keep their weight at a reasonably normal level as a way of protecting their hearts and their health.

"Overweight overworks the heart," the association says, pointing to higher mortality rates among men, and also among women to a lesser extent who are carrying around excess pounds. Get good medical advice about what is a proper diet for you, it adds.

Disappearing Birthmarks

Strawberry birthmarks are fairly common, but most of them disappear with time, or become greatly improved, without any treatment, British skin specialist report.

Among 169 such birthmarks among 140 children, only 21 marks remained by the time the youngsters were eight years old.

Substitute Nerves?

From the Soviet Union comes word of experiments in which metal electrodes are being substituted for severed lengths of nerves in dogs' legs.

Dogs in the experiments run and jump quite normally, says a Soviet writer describing research of Prof. Boris Ognev. Prof. Ognev has performed 36 operations on 30 dogs so far, removing up to two-inch lengths of the sciatic nerve, he said. Further details of how the "substitute" nerve actually works were not supplied in a Tass broadcast quoting from Nedelya, the weekly supplement of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia

The butterscotch and chocolate sauces usually used for topping ice cream are also delicious served with simple cornstarch pudding.

YOUNGEST COLLEGE PREXY

TAKING OVER. At his desk, Arend D. Lubbers concentrates on his new duties as president of Central College.

At 29, Arend D. Lubbers is the youngest college president in the nation. This fall he took over the top job at Central College, a coeducational liberal arts school at Pella, a town of 5,000 in central Iowa. The school has 501 students and a staff of 69 teachers.

Looking more like a student than a college prexy, Lubbers is not in the least apologetic about his age. "Young people respond to youthful leadership," he says.

Already his presence on the campus is being felt in many old and new corners. A new $18,000 chemistry research laboratory is being planned. A foreign study program has been inaugurated. A course in Russian language opened for the first time this fall. An on-campus research fund has been established to help faculty members and students who wish to undertake special projects in the sciences.

The young president is literally following in the footsteps of his father, Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, 64, now president of Hope College at Holland, Mich. The elder Lubbers served as president of Central from 1934 until 1945.

Lubbers received his degree from Hope, and his master's in history from Rutgers University in 1956. For a while, he taught history at Wittenburg University at Springfield, Ohio.

With his wife, Eunice, and their three children, Don, 6, John, 3, and Mary, 1, he returned to Pella last year when he was named vice president in charge of development at Central.

Lubbers stops to talk to Susan Argus, of Hammond, Ind., left, and Delores Rasler of Des Moines, Ia.

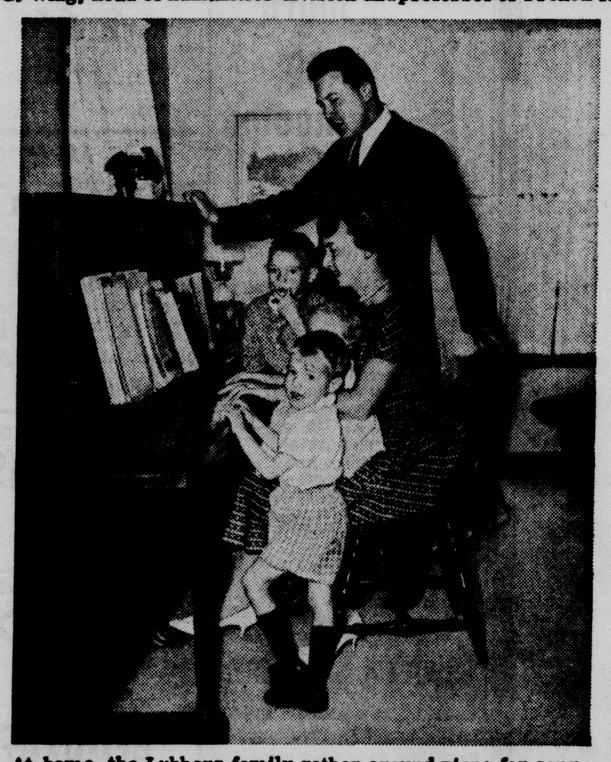

He holds conference with two "oldtimers" at Central, Dr. Laura M. Nanes, head of division of history and social studies since 1939, and Dr. William G. Wing, head of humanities division and professor of French for 25 years.

Lubbers enjoys chat with Kiwanis members at luncheon in town.

He stands before portrait of father, Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, who served as president of Central College from 1934-1945. Picture hangs in hall in college's administration building.

At home, the Lubbers family gather around piano for songfest. Mrs. Lubbers holds Mary, 1, as she plays. In foreground is John, 3, and, in back, standing by father is Don, 6.

Lubbers family at dinnertime. While papa and mama, and little Don and John prepare to eat, baby Mary sits in high chair, quite absorbed with her own food.

Kennedy Receives Reports On Welfare, Space Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy, on a schedule crammed with conferences and air flights, received Tuesday two more task force reports — on the old problem of public welfare and the new problem of space.

And he announced several appointments, including Henry H. Fowler as undersecretary of the Treasury. Fowler is a former director of defense mobilization.

The welfare report, made public in New York, proposed the expansion of several welfare programs and supported Kennedy's plan for medical care of the aged under Social Security.

The space report, handed to Kennedy at the Capitol, was not made public.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said there had been no hitch or differences in the report. Release was delayed, he said, so some classified information could be taken out.

Chairman Jerome B. Weisner and his task force on space gave the report to Kennedy at a conference in the office of Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson.

Johnson, who will head the National Advisory Council on Space, Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., new chairman of the Senate Space Committee, and Rep. Overton Brooks, D-La., chairman of the House Space Committee, also attended the session.

After the conference, Salinger read a statement by Kennedy which said the task force had "prepared a highly informative working paper covering many aspects of this critically important field, and their work and recommendations, along with further material, will be useful to Vice President-elect Johnson and me in shaping our national space program."

Kennedy then headed into the office of Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.J., chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Anderson told a newsman they discussed Project Rover, the research program on using nuclear engines in rockets.

Before the session on space, Kennedy conferred for more than an hour with Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson on America's balance of payments problem.

Kennedy then met with Douglas Dillon, the incoming secretary of the Treasury, and Fowler. Dillon said they discussed the general administrative setup of the department.

On the flight from New York to Washington, Kennedy was accompanied by George F. Kennan, former ambassador to the Soviet Union. Kennedy said they did not discuss a job for Kennan in the administration.

The welfare task force, headed by Prof. Wilbur J. Cohen of the University of Michigan, proposed expanding Social Security, public assistance, unemployment compensation, and medical education.

The group recommended that Congress approve immediately a health insurance plan for the aged tied to Social Security. That controversial plan is a pet project of Kennedy.

The agenda for Kennedy's Washington conference with Anderson, Johnson and Kerr focused on balance of payments. The United States has recently been spending four billion more in dollars abroad than it has been earning by selling exports to foreign countries. The result has been a flow of gold from the United States.

In New York, Kennedy's callers included Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Gov. John B. Swainson of Michigan, former Gov. Dennis Roberts of Rhode Island and John J. McCloy, who will head the disarmament commission for Kennedy.

Kennedy announced the appointment of John Moore, vice president of the University of Pennsylvania, as administrator of the General Services Administration, and Bernard L. Boutin of Laconia, N. H., as deputy administrator.

Besides recommending its health insurance plan for the aged, Cohen's task force proposed:

1. A $70-million to $90-million program for medical education.
2. A $115-million program for hospital construction and renovation. This would take care of the increased load resulting from the health insurance proposal.
3. A $185-million to $275-million program to expand aid to children of unemployed parents.
4. A broadening of unemployment insurance.
5. A broadening of the Social Security program, including an immediate 10 per cent increase in payments.
6. Increasing the public assistance program so it covers any person in need.
7. A $30-million program for medical research.

REPORT ROBBERY OF PEORIA STORE SOLVED: 3 ARRESTED

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Police said Tuesday they have solved the $5,000 robbery of a National Food Store with the arrest of three men.

Investigators said Kenneth L. Wilson, 28, Peoria, was picked up Sunday for questioning, admitted taking part in it and named two men as accomplices.

The men he named, Eugene Herron, 28, and Philip Lance, 30, both of East Peoria, were picked up Monday night and early Tuesday. Police said all three would be charged with armed robbery.

The robbers cut their way into the store in North Peoria Thursday night and waited for the manager and assistant manager to appear Friday morning. The manager was forced to open the safe, containing about $5,000.

None of the loot has been recovered, police said.

Students Make No Protest

The U. S. Supreme Court Tuesday refused Georgia's plea to further delay integration at the school.

Gov. Ernest Vandiver said the appeal to the high court exhausted the state's legal remedies. Vandiver earlier was stopped from closing the doors of the university by U.S. Dist. Judge W.A. Bootle's temporary injunction against cutting off state funds to the school.

The governor protested to Bootle "the sweeping nature of these orders attempting to take over the state legislative and executive processes," but said, "my respect for lawful processes and my oath as governor of the state of Georgia preclude any act of defiance on my part."

Miss Hunter, 18, a freshman from Atlanta, spent the night on the campus in a two-room suite in a women's dormitory. Crowds gathered outside, some yelling, but a white coed said later that white girls chatted with the Negro in her room in a generally friendly reception. Freshmen women are required to live on the campus.

Holmes, 19, a former student at Morehouse College in Atlanta, spent the night off-campus in Athens at an undisclosed location.

He is not required to live on campus and was told there is no dormitory space available for him.

Miss Hunter completed registration Tuesday as a journalism student, transferring from Wayne University in Detroit, and Holmes as an arts and science major. He wants eventually to become a doctor.

Leaders of the Georgia Legislature, in session in Atlanta, although protesting Bootle's order as interference in state affairs, admitted it tied their hands at least until after a Thursday hearing on whether the injunction will be made permanent.

Demo Till Still 'Nil' But Hopeful

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy's headquarters estimated today it is costing the debt-ridden Democratic National Committee more than $250,000 to finance the pre-inaugural business activities of Kennedy and his staff.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said in response to news conference questions that he couldn't speak for Kennedy on the matter, but that some members of his staff favor enactment of legislation authorizing the government to meet this expense in the future.

Salinger said that in addition to bills being picked up by the national committee, Kennedy — a wealthy man — is paying some of the expenses out of his own pocket. Salinger had no information on the amount.

Also, Salinger said, members of Kennedy-appointed study committees on various matters generally are paying their own bills. He indicated, however, that the national committee—which came out of the presidential campaign owing between $2 million and $3 million —is picking up the tab for some of these members.

In the face of the committee's big debt, how are current bills being paid?

Salinger noted that the committee hopes to raise more than a million dollars through sale of tickets to a huge gala to be staged in Washington the evening of Jan. 19. Some of the ticket sale proceeds are already in hand and the committee is having to dip into that money, Salinger reported.

St. Louis Priest In Rome For Cardinal Rites

ROME (AP) — Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis arrived by plane today for the secret consistory next Monday that will make him a Cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church.

The three other prelates who will receive their red hats at the same ceremony are already in Rome. They are Msgr. Jose Humberto Quintero, Archbishop of Caracas; Msgr. Luis Concha Cordoba, Archbishop of Bogota, and Cardinal-Designate Giuseppe Ferretto, and Italian member of the Vatican curia.

One archbishop and five bishops were in the party accompanying the cardinal-designate. They were the Most Rev. Paul Schulte, Archbishop of Indianapolis, Ind.; The Most Rev. John P. Cody, Bishop of Kansas City-St. Joseph; The Most Rev. Glennon P. Falvin, Auxiliary Bishop of St. Louis; The Most Rev. Charles H. Helmsing, Bishop of Springfield; Cape Girardeau; The Most Rev. Joseph M. Marling, Bishop of Jefferson City, all in Missouri; and the Most Rev. Ernest J. Primeau, bishop of Manchester, N.H.

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP)—A defendant who pleaded his own case looked at the jury and commented they "look like they are honest." The jury found him guilty.

TRY A WANT AD

Health Needs Finance Plan At Stalemate

WASHINGTON (AP)—An apparent stalemate on how the health needs of older people should be financed cropped up today at the White House Conference on Aging.

One section of the conference voted 190-99 to ask Congress and President-elect John F. Kennedy to push for immediate passage of a Social Security health insurance plan for the aged.

Another section voted 165-122 against the Social Security approach, which it called "unnecessary and undesirable." It favored retaining the present limited legislation passed by Congress last year to aid needy older people.

Apparently, both views will become a part of a final report from the conference which will be submitted to Kennedy and Congress.

The conflict grows out of the peculiar structure of the conference, which gives the power to make final recommendations to 10 different groups of delegates.

Since each section is autonomous, there will be no final vote of the 2,700 delegates on recommendations. Opposing views have equal weight, and presumably will be passed on as separate recommendations.

The opening vote was recorded in a section on health and medical care, which adopted an amendment by Dr. Milton V. Davis, a surgeon from Dallas, Tex.

Both groups included representatives of organized medicine, the insurance industry, and labor welfare groups.

EGAN TO RUN AGAIN

AURORA, Ill. (AP)— Paul Egan, controversial mayor of Aurora, will seek a third four-year term.

Egan and nine other candidates filed Tuesday for the Feb. 14 primary. A mayor will be chosen April 4 from the two winning the largest number of votes in the primary balloting.

Other aspirants include corporation counsel Charles Darling, whom Egan tried to have removed, and Glen A. Palmatier, one-time secretary to the fiery mayor.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved irregularly in active trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .10 to 225.70 with the industrials off .10, rails unchanged, and utilities off .10.

Changes of most key stocks were small but there were a few moves of a point or so in either direction.

Brokers saw the market as consolidating some of the gains made in its 1961 rally.

Steels, drugs, oils, and aircrafts were mostly higher. Rails rested after their recent advances and were narrowly mixed. Farm implements and electrical equipments declined. Many groups were mixed.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .42 at 626.14.

Corporate bonds were irregularly lower. Governments were firm. Trading was quiet.

GAMBLING RECEIPTS ON DOWNHILL RUN

CHICAGO (AP) — Wagering in much of Illinois is on the wane if gambling tax receipts are an indication.

Harold R. All, district director of the Internal Revenue Service, said taxes collected from gamblers in 26 northern Illinois counties in 1960 were the smallest of record. The levy on gamblers—$50 plus 10 per cent of gross receipts—was begun in 1952.

Receipts for 1960 totaled $616,118. The largest collection was $1,531,739, in the first year of the tax. All said collections have decreased every year since the tax was started with the exception of 1956.

All said he had no idea as to why the receipts had decreased.

CENTRALIA DENTIST FILES $50,000 DAMAGE

SALEM, Ill. (AP)—A Centralia dentist has filed a $50,000 personal injury suit naming his parents as defendants.

The suit filed in Marion County Circuit Court by Richard C. Baldwin, charges the defendants with negligence in failing to have a sidewalk maintained free of ice or posted as dangerous.

Baldwin, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Baldwin of Centralia, claims he slipped on a sidewalk at his parents' home Feb. 4, 1959.

The suit claims he broke a leg and was disabled many months. The elder Baldwin also is a dentist.

GRAIN FUTURES GENERALLY WEAK

CHICAGO (AP)Trade in grain futures settle down to a draggy pace today and prices turned generally weak.

Soybeans, which had galloped over ranges of as much as eight cents in a single day, were only minor fractions away from their previous closes although they had ranged major fractions either way in earlier dealings.

Brokers said the speculative drive in all the pits appeared to have lost steam and that dealers apparently were awaiting some new trade factors.

At noon, soybeans were ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ⅛ lower, January $2.41¼; wheat ¼-⅜ lower, March $2.09⅞; corn unchanged to ¼ lower, March $1.11¼; rye ⅝-¾ lower, March $1.16¾; oats unchanged to ¼ lower, March 66¼.

Wheat was ¼ to 1⅛ cents a bushel lower at the finish, March $2.09⅝; corn ¼ to ¾ lower, March $1.11⅜; oats ¼ to ⅜ lower, March 66⅛-66; rye ¼ to ⅝ lower, March $1.16⅞; soybeans 2½ lower to 1 cent higher, January $2.39¼-½.

U.S. Gets Report From Britain On Alleged Spying

LONDON (AP) — Britain has rushed to Washington an account of its inquiry into alleged spying activities of three men and two women arrested three days ago.

Government sources said Tuesday night advising U. S. authorities follows normal British-American cooperation in counterespionage work.

British intelligence men and Scotland Yard extended their 8-month-old investigation beyond London to western England, where key naval research centers and bases are located.

A hunt is believed on for new evidence and new persons supected in a carefully organized plan to pry out naval weapons secrets.

After a preliminary court appearance Monday the five were jailed until a further hearing next week. They are booksellers Peter J. Kroger and his wife, Helen, both 50; corporate executive Gordon A. Lonsdale, 37; and Henry F. Houghton, 55, and Ethel Gee, 46, employes at the Portland naval research base.

The Krogers and Lonsdale are believed to be Canadians.

The sea around Portland, a south coast base, is the daily testing area for under surface warfare—the most important function of the Royal Navy today, according to Admiralty men.

Naval scientists have been working at least six months on a variable depth asdic set nicknamed "Assassin."

"Assassin" is believed the most accurate submarine detector ever developed. There have been hints that, in favorable conditions, it can detect submarines up to 75 miles away. Its secret would be priceless to a potential enemy.

FIRES CLAIM LIVES OF TWO MORE VICTIMS

CHICAGO (AP)— A series of fires Sunday night on the North Side have claimed their sixth and seventh victims.

Mrs. Myrtle Hodson, 70, died in a hospital today while undergoing treatment for burns. Mrs. Louis Reibs, 79, died Tuesday night. They were among six persons driven from an apartment building by flames that took the life of Mrs. Betty Barbero, 50.

Another blaze at a rooming house the same night took four lives. Two others in the same area were quickly extinguished.

An arson investigation has been ordered by Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn.

UNCLE JIMMIE IS 103

CREAL SPRINGS, Ill. (AP) — Uncle Jimmie White, who missed voting for a president for the first time last November, is 103 years old today.

A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Parmer White of Creal Springs, said Uncle Jimmie isn't feeling well today and probably will sleep.

Uncle Jimmie missed voting in November for the first time since 1880.

On his 102nd birthday he told newsmen he attributed his long life to "good food and the Democratic party."

Kennedy Administration Plans Frontier

program authorizing $1.3 billion for construction only. The two houses couldn't agree and the bill died. Whether Kennedy is any more successful as president than as a senator in promoting a teachers' pay measure remains to be seen.

The new president will have a fight on his hands in proposing a medical care program for the aged, financed through Social Security taxes. Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., already has served notice he will oppose a tax-financed proposal as a substitute for the state-federal program passed by the last Congress.

Republicans are lining up their forces to battle an expected Kennedy recommendation for an increase in the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour, with an expansion of coverage to another five million persons, mostly in the retail trades.

Republicans can be expected to contend that a minimum wage boost now may only increase unemployment. They are not alone in their opposition. For example Sen. Fulbright, D-Ark., takes a similar position.

Kennedy's bill to help depressed areas may carry around $400 million in federal grants and loans to encourage new industries in areas of chronic unemployment. It probably will call for retraining of miners, railroad workers and others who have lost their jobs permanently.

Kennedy is expected to back a housing bill geared to spurring this lagging industry with lower interest rates and easier terms for credit purchases. In the past he has supported urban renewal programs.

There is some doubt on the course the new president may take in the complex field of labor law reforms.

The platform on which he was elected pledges the new president to seek repeal of the Taft-Hartley law provision which authorizes states to pass right-to-work laws. But it seems questionable to most observers that this will get a high priority—if any — in the rush to legislation providing broader welfare benefits.

These benefits could include a new department of urban affairs, to handle mounting problems of city dwellers, as well as some kind of central agency pointed at giving consumers a break.

These two projects still are in the speculative stage, however. Most associates think Kennedy will wait until he gets the feel of the presidency and plumbs the economic situation thoroughly before making any such proposals.

AA Says Ozark Lines Compete With Each Other

WASHINGTON (AP)—An American Airlines spokesman has testified that his company and Ozark Air Lines are draining traffic from each other in competing at Springfield and Peoria, Ill.

As a result, assistant vice president W. D. Stewart told a Civil Aeronautics Board examiner, American provides the service at a loss. His testimony was offered at a hearing on American's application to abandon service to both points.

Stewart challenged a contention by W. G. Frederick, attorney for Peoria, that the airline's operations involved in the application are profitable. Both communities are opposing the cutback.

Ozark, a feeder line serving the two cities, is backing American's proposal. In the same proceeding, it is seeking CAB permission to operate one-stop flights between Chicago and St. Louis, stopping at Springfield or Peoria.

In another action involving air service, the federal agency ordered Ozark to report within 20 days on traffic volume on a St. Louis to Quincy, Ill., and Hannibal, Mo., route awarded on a tentative basis in 1958.

To meet minimum standards for continuation, the board said, the points served must provide an average of five passengers per flight.

WARN OF FIRE DANGER IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

BENTON, Ill. (AP)— State forest officials warned of a high fire danger in Southern Illinois today and urged residents not to burn brush.

District forester Martin Anderson said the fire danger was the worst in his 11 years in the Southeastern District, a 13-county area.

Anderson said 2 airplanes are patrolling the area today in an effort to spot brush fires. At least 20 fires were reported Tuesday, including a 300-acre fire west of Harrisburg. Other fires were extinguished near Bluford, Wayne City, McLeansboro, Herrin, Zeigler, Carterville and Carmi.

Fire officials said pieces of metal were found at the scene and the police bomb squad was called into the investigation.

The blast blew in the door of the synagogue and damaged surrounding walls. No estimate of the damage was available.

Uruguay Seeks To Block Red Demonstrations

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) —Police raided the headquarters of the Communist party today and arrested 131 persons.

The police launched a drive against planned pro-Castro demonstrations as the government considered breaking relations with Cuba.

Tension gripped this capital as Communists and other partisans of Prime Minister Fidel Castro planned new demonstrations. A mammoth demonstration was called for Thursday, and motorcades to rally support were scheduled in some parts of the city tonight.

One man was killed and dozens were wounded, some seriously, when police tried to separate leftists from 3,000 anti-Castro demonstrators Tuesday night. The leftists had tried to break up the spread through a 20-block area downtown.

Some persons took refuge in the Communist party headquarters. Police stood guard outside the building until they got orders to move inside.

Rules Battle Reported Solved By Adding Three

WASHINGTON (AP) — A solution to the House rules controversy, without resorting to a purge of Southern Democrats, was reported today to have been reached by House leaders.

It would increase the committee membership from its present eight Democrats and four Republicans to ten Democrats and five Republicans.

Rep. Howard W. Smith D-Va., would remain as chairman and Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., would remain as ranking Democrat. Smith and Colmer have teamed in the past with the four Republicans to block much legislation sponsored by liberal Democrats.

Increasing the membership to 15 would give Speaker Sam Rayburn power to name two more Democrats, presumably liberals, and would give the Republicans one more seat. Theoretically, the committee division would be 8-7 against the conservatives.

Rayburn has committed himself to breaking the coalition's hold on the committee, which charts the course of most House legislation. He reportedly was ready to oust Colmer from the committee and replace him with a liberal if necessary.

The compromise reportedly has enough support to win approval. It would come before a caucus of House Democrats next week.

Urge Pact On Drainage Before Highway Work

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — A group of agricultural and government representatives have endorsed a plan they say will reduce the number of complaints stemming from disruption of farm drainage systems during highway construction.

The proposal, subject to approval by the Illinois Division of Highways, urges farmers and highway officials to reach settlements on the drainage problems before highway work begins.

The plan, drafted by the Association of Illinois Soil Conservation District Committee, was endorsed Tuesday.

George Irwin of Iuka, chairman of the committee, said disruption of farm drainage systems during cgnstruction of interstate highways "has become acute."

Cost of new drainage systems under 300-foot right-of-ways to replace systems destroyed by construction is beyond the means of most drainage districts, Irwin said.

Other groups working on the proposal were the Illinois Agricultural Association (Farm Bureau), U.S. Soil Conservation Service, the University of Illinois Agricultural Engineering and Agricultural Extension Service, and the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

Firemen from Bunker Hill fought the blaze. The barn was on the Robert Dillard farm, west of Dorchester.

Report Cubans Score Hits On Seaborne Target

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro, with Communist Czechoslovak technicians assisting, has been directing anti-invasion gunnery on the northern coast, informed sources said today.

These sources said members of Castro's people's militia, using Czech antitank artillery, fired at targets 15 miles at sea.

Confirming that Castro had been directing the gunnery practice "at some spot in Cuba," the semiofficial newspaper Revolucion claimed gunners made direct hits on the seaborne targets. This would be phenomenal marksmanship with an antitank gun of that size.

Revolucion said the target practice took place last weekend.

Ernesto Guevara, Cuba's economic chief, confirmed that Communist leader Osvaldo Sanchez and two Cuban air force fliers died Monday night in the crash of their plane after it was fired on by Cuban defense batteries on invasion watch near the resort of Veradero.

Routt Grabs Early Lead To Halt Virginia

By STAN SPOTTS

Coach Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets almost folded in a rough second half but relied on a first half margin to offset a Virginia comeback and hung on for a 50-43 verdict over Coach John Murray's Redbirds at Our Saviour's gymnasium Tuesday night.

Routt capitalized on 16 free throws in 25 attempts to register its 10th victory against four losses. Virginia matched the winners in field goals with 17 but hit only nine of 23 charity attempts which brought about loss number seven in 11 outings.

The Rockets made their bid early for the win with a tight zone defense, board control and a fast break to get off to a 9-0 lead. Virginia, failing to connect for a field goal in the first quarter, made two free throws in four tries to trail by 14 after the initial canto, 16-2.

Both quintets hit six goals in the second quarter and both failed to pick up a charity toss but Routt was still out in front at the half by 14, 28-14. Carroll and Johnson paced Routt's scoring in the first two quarters with seven and six points respectively while Reichert's six was high for Virginia.

Virginia gradually sliced into Routt's margin in the third quarter and things began to get rough under the boards and almost out of hand. The Redbirds outscored Routt, 13-8, for the period with Reg Velten's seven points showing the way. Carroll had six of the Rockets' eight tallies. The closest Virginia came was seven points, 34-27, on a free throw by Mefford and a technical foul award by Reichert with 40 seconds remaining. Routt maintained a nine-point advantage after 24 minutes of play, 36-27.

While Routt failed to pick up a free throw in the third quarter, it hit 10 of 17 in the final chapter and this was the big difference although the Redbirds outscored them in the final eight minutes of play, 16-14. The Rockets made only two field goals during this time while Virginia hit seven, three by Velten.

The losers came within seven points twice of the lead in the final quarter but couldn't close the gap further until Mefford's bucket with 1:27 showing made it a five-point difference, 48-43.

The second half was a ragged affair which produced 23 fouls, 12 against Routt and 11 against Virginia. Each side had 17 called against them for the game.

Ed Carroll led Rocket scorers with 15 points while Velten of Virginia took game laurels with 16.

Mickey Mantle needs just 12 home runs in 1961 to pass Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg who is in 13th place with a total of 331. Yogi Berra needs 14 to pass Greenberg.

Travel Weary Highlanders Journey To Augustana

The travel weary MacMurray College Highlanders play their ninth straight game on the road Wednesday at Augustana College before returning home to friendlier territory Saturday for a match with Kansas City University.

The road and injuries have taken their toll, as the Clansmen now hold an 8-4 record for the season. All the injured Highlanders will be back in action for Wednesday's match with Augustana, except two 6-5 centers. They are starter Chuck Mau, a Highland Park freshman, who has missed the last four games, and Bob Grider, a junior from Barry, who has missed the last ten games with a severely splintered little finger.

Augustana won their first four games of the season, dropped the next four, and recently lost a close 78-76 CCI match to Illinois Wesleyan University. Kansas City University will bring their junior varsity squad for a 6 o'clock preliminary game at the Hardin Avenue field house Saturday.

After three wins in four games in holiday tournament play, the Highlanders took an ill-fated trip to Indiana, which saw them defeated by Indiana Central College, 82-68. MacMurray fell behind at the outset of the game, tied the score 45-45 early in the second half, but was out-scored 19-2 in the next seven minutes. MacMurray hit only 28% of their field shots in the contest, with everybody cold at once.

The following night Wabash, who last time out had defeated Butler University, trailed the Clansmen throughout the entire game before hitting two free throws in the last 16 seconds to go ahead. The Highlanders failed to cash in on any of four shots to lose a heartbreaking fine all around effort, 64-62.

Charlie Bowerman, Little All-American for Wabash, was held to 10 points by the Highlanders' Gary Little, 5-9, Jacksonville, but Little in turn was held to one point by the strong Wabash defense.

Larry Krulac, 6-3, St. David, set an individual rebounding record for MacMurray in the game, clearly dominating the boards over taller opponents, with 25 rebounds.

Gary Little, and Marv Hohenberger, 6-0, Ayersville, Ohio, both senior guards, still lead the Highlander scoring with 141 and 131 points, respectively. Other scoring leaders for MacMurray are Don McCarty, 6-2, Pleasant Hill, 114; Tom Flynn, 6-2, Canton, 112; Ron Price, 6-1, Dorchester, 111; Roy Hahnfeld, 6-4, Palatine, 103; and Krulac, who is leading the team in rebounds, 85.

Clan Wrestlers Beaten Twice

The MacMurray College wrestlers had their undefeated dual match record snapped, as they incurred two straight defeats at the hands of Indiana Central College and Wabash College.

Coach Dwaine Marten's wrestlers lost 21-11 to Indiana Central and 19-11 to Wabash.

Heavyweight Gary Bass of Peoria, after defeating B. Easter, a 6-4 240 pound Chicago Bears football draftee at Indiana Central, lost his first dual match to Bill Beuthin of Wabash.

Larry Dailey, 137 pounds from Jacksonville, continued his undefeated string through five dual matches with a pair of victories. Freshman Scott Engroff, Natrona Heights, Pa., handicapped by a bruised shoulder muscle, lost his first dual match to Jim Welliver of Indiana Central, who was the NAIA national 127 pound runner-up in 1959.

The MacMurray grapplers meet Elmhurst College Saturday, Jan. 14, in a dual match at Elmhurst. In addition to Bass, Dailey and Engroff, the following wrestlers will probably make the trip: 130 pounds, Bill Celander, Peeksville, N. Y.; 147, Curt Wingerter, Downers Grove; 157, Rob Williams, Warsaw, N. Y.; 167, Bill Weber, Belleville, Ill., and 177, Gene Benedict, Culver, Ind.

PLAYERS STILL ANGRY

LONDON (AP) — Professional soccer players, angry over the English league clubs' insistence on keeping the present transfer and contract system, refused to call off their threatened strike Tuesday.

A meeting of players from clubs in the south of England rejected a "final offer" from the clubs as "completely unacceptable." The strike is to begin Jan. 20.

The clubs have flatly rejected demands for a new system of contracts. The players seek freedom to sign with what clubs they please and to negotiate contracts for as long as they want.

At present a soccer player signs up for one season only and then must wait for his club to transfer him before joining another club.

The Pretzels had built up a 48-32 lead at the end of three periods but Glenwood really got hot and tied the ball game at the end of regulation play. In the first overtime Compardo for New Berlin and Marr for Glenwood each got a basket and the game went into the final period. New Berlin's record is now 7-3 and Glenwood's is 9-3. Downstate Prep Notes

BY JOHN CAMPBELL

Coach Jack Renfro of Winchester's Wildcats captained Collinsville's third place team in the State tourney (1950). His fine Winchester club is undefeated in 11 games including their third consecutive Illinois Valley conference tournament championship. This is Renfro's third year at the Scott County seat high school and at the present time his overall record is 54 wins, 14 losses and seven trophies. During his first year at Winchester his Wildcats had a 23-6 record and last season his team had 20-8 including the title of the Winchester tourney and second place in the Illinois Valley conference race.

Jacksonville's Crimsons are improving and might cause plenty of trouble by tournament time as Coach John Chapman has found the right combination. The Crimsons had been on the road since playing host to Routt on Dec. 9 until losing a tight battle to a strong Canton five Friday night. Jacksonville's flag raising ceremony is one of the best in the state, being very impressive, and their band is outstanding.

Alton high lost Robert Stock with a broken ankle in the East St. Louis tourney. Collinsville has been winning without ace Bogie Redmon who suffered a broken bone in his ankle last month after beating MacArthur (Decatur). Coach Vergil Fletcher's Kahoks have had to alter their style of play without Redmon. Instead of the deliberate style typical of Collinsville team's offense they have gone to a smartly executed press. The Alton-Collinsville game was televised Friday night by KPLR-TV.

Howard J. Lester is the athletic director at Mt. Prospect (Prospect) high and he formerly coached at Winchester and Carlinville. Prospect is one of the strongest teams in the state and won the championship of the Kankakee high Holiday tourney. The Knights won the Geneva high tourney this season being unbeaten.

Canton senior high school financial report, 1960 Canton Christmas Classic. Income — Advance sale of season tournament tickets $888.00; Dec. 26 — $537.00. Dec. 27—$475.50, Dec. 28—$425.25. Dec. 29—$392.75. Dec. 30—(afternoon) $26.00, Dec. 30—(night) $1060.25 with a total of $3804.75.

Expenses—Officials $460.00. Millage—visiting teams $418.50. Expenses Danville (Motel $136.00 Meals $216.00). Naperville (Motel $115.50 Meals $216.00). Ticket takers, sellers, timers, scorers, etc. $335.00. Trophies (excluding donated ones) $114.70. Printing programs, posters, passes, etc. $80.00. Printing of reserved tickets and program backs $68.40. Auxiliary Police $64.00. Expense of ushers, hosts, etc. $30.65. Total expenses $2254.75. Profit $1550.00

The tournament management wishes to thank every team, every coach, and every fan for their fine cooperation in making this an outstanding tournament. Officials and fans were high in their praise of the conduct of everyone associated with the tournament. Thanks to all. It is planned to hold the tournament on the same dates next year—Dec. 26-30. Some thought is being given to the possibility of making the tournament extend beyond the selection of the champion and consolation champion. (Some way in which those teams with less than two losses would continue to play until all teams had been defeated two times with the exception of one). This would allow some of the teams to play as many as five (or six) games and a team might lose once and still come out as the over-all champion. This idea will probably not materialize unless there is some interest shown on the part of the competing teams. Thanks again to everyone that participated in any way with this tournament. Principal Dr. William D. Masters served as manager of the tournament for the second straight year.

Denny Radabaugh of Savanna high is among the top scorers in the state as the 6-5 center has an average of 30.8 points per game in 13 games this season. He hit his peak against Newman high of Sterling Dec. 14 with 57 points and his low of 17 against Geneseo high in the Northwestern Illinois Holiday tourney. That is the only game lost by the Jerry Gray coached team this season.

CAN KEEP HIS MEDALS

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A German sports official said Tuesday Armin Hary, Olympic sprint champion suspended for padding expense accounts, would not be forced to give up his medals as was Jim Thorpe, American winner of the decathlon title in the 1912 games.

Kurt Buelow, chairman of the legal committee that found Hary guilty, said he felt the German track ace would be restored to amateur competition after serving the one-year suspension. Buelow also condemned the method of paying expenses of athletes, saying they virtually forced the athletes to be dishonest.

Carthage Garners 36 Points In Final Ten Minutes To Beat IC

CARTHAGE — The Carthage College Redmen scorched the nets for 36 points in the final ten minutes of play while missing only four shots to hand Illinois College a 99-67 setback Tuesday.

Coach Bill Merris' Blueboys stayed in contention after trailing by eight at halftime, 41-33, and came within five points of the lead before the Redmen found their touch for one of the hottest exhibitions seen here in many a season.

The loss was the sixth straight for IC in eight games. Bill Schildman was the big gun for the losers with 18 points followed by Jim Costello and Mike Bandy, who totaled 12 and 11 points respectively.

Carthage had four men in the double figures with Menley's 24 taking top honors. Carthage is now 4-5 for the season.

Illinois High School Teams Assigned To Districts, Regionals

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Assignment of 684 downstate teams to district and regional tournaments, which open the state title series, was announced Tuesday by the Illinois High School Association.

Smaller schools were sent to 42 districts beginning Feb. 20. The remaining school were placed in 60 regionals starting the following week.

The 16 sectional tournaments and the state championship games follow at one week intervals.

Collinsville and Rockford East, currently the one-two ranking clubs in The Associated Pres poll, are thrown into regionals with traditional rivals.

For Collinsville, which will play at Granite City, the chief threats appear to be Alton and Edwardsville.

Rockford East will compete in the same regional with Rockford West and three other Rockford schools.

Three more rated teams—Springfield, Moline and Peoria Manual—face tests to survive their first hurdles along the championship trail.

Two city opponents—Griffin and unbeaten Lanphier—loom as stiff opposition for Springfield in the eight-team meet in the state capital.

Moline, host to a regional, is expected to bump into strong challenges from East Moline, Rock Island and Rock Island Alleman.

Three other Peoria teams are among those entered with Peoria Manual in the regional at Richwoods of Peoria Heights.

Most other ranking contenders are most heavily favored to move through regional assignments. In this category are Centralia, Prospect, Clinton, Bridgeport and Pinckneyville.

No rated outfits will be playing in the same regional.

After completion of the preliminary tournaments, the state championships will be run off at eight sites March 14 in first round contests and then move to the University of Illinois for the final two days March 17-18.

SHEEP CALM HORSES

NEW YORK (AP) — Goats, roosters, dogs and cats have been companions for the thoroughbred but in South Africa two trainers have discovered that sheep have a calming effect on horses.

Fleur, a high strung Cape Town horse, and Exultant, a Johannesburg horse, have been sleeping and eating with sheep as companions, reports the South African Wool Board.

Three Canadians — Dave Johnston, Tom Heintzman and Dick Blakey — are members of Harvard's hockey team.

Chandlerville Wins Over Illinois Deaf, 47-44

The Illinois School for the Deaf just couldn't find the hoop in the last minute of the game, and lost 47-44 to Coach Don Pape's Chandlerville Comets Tuesday. The Comets picked up their sixth win of the season, and their second against one loss in PMSC action. Coach Jim Bond's Tigers never saw the lead in the contest, but tied the ball game three times in the first quarter before the Comets took a 16-14 lead with 4:40 to go in the first half. The Tigers, with Earl Claussen finding the range, moved to a two point deficit, but the Comets got some fine play by freshman Ken Baldwin and moved back into the lead 39-30 at the end of three quarters.

In the final period Ed Joyner and Bobby Poncar sparked the Tigers as they crept to within four points of the winners, 45-41, with 4:29 left in the ball game but ISD could not control the ball and fell to defeat by the three point margin. Bob Poncar topped the Tigers with 11 points and Ed Joyner collected 10 while Ken Baldwin led the Comets with 13. ISD captured the JV game 50-32.

Ike's Final Budget To Be Balanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's final federal budget, which goes to Congress on Monday, will be a balanced, non-political one, Republican congressional leaders said Tuesday.

But they added that some of the spending recommendations made to President-elect John F. Kennedy by his various "task forces" could throw the new budget into the red, if adopted.

The GOP leaders, speaking to newsmen after their final weekly meeting with Eisenhower, said also that the government will end up in the black during the current fiscal year—which the administration has been predicting all along.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the Senate and House GOP leaders, said the meeting of more than two hours with Eisenhower was devoted largely to the budget.

The budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1 is the one Eisenhower will send to Congress four days before he turns over the reins of government to Kennedy.

"It is a balanced budget. It is a constructive budget. This budget would be the same if Dwight Eisenhower were to continue in office," Dirksen said.

"It is not an expedient budget, not an opportunist budget, not a political budget. It is a forward-looking constructive governmental operation."

Dirksen said Eisenhower will again stress the necessity for living within revenues. The GOP leaders said the budget provides for projects that are necessary for the national well-being yet will "keep our fiscal house in order by living within our revenues."

Halleck, in speaking of the various proposals made to Kennedy by his task forces, said House Republicans would resist what he called any excessive spending.

He recalled that during the presidential campaign, Vice President Richard M. Nixon had said that all of the Democratic proposals would add up to an extra $13 billion in yearly spending.

Neither Dirksen nor Halleck provided any figures on the new budget or the expected surplus.

But other authoritative sources say the budget will provide a surplus of $600 million and perhaps considerably more. The new budget, they said, will be bigger than this year's, most recently estimated at $80.5 billion, and that much of the increase will be in defense outlays.

Menagh Replaces Shanks As Head Of Prudential

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Louis R. Menagh Jr., an executive vice president of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. of America, was named president Tuesday of the multibillion dollar firm.

He succeeds Carrol M. Shanks, whose retirement after 15 years as Prudential president took effect Tuesday. Shanks' decision to leave the company was linked to a proposed timberland transaction that stirred controversy last year.

Menagh, a Brooklyn, N. Y., native now living in Maplewood steps up to the post that paid Shanks $250,000 a year.

At 68, Menagh is three years past the company's normal retirement age. But this limit can be extended to 68 and the board of directors can continue to make exception to the rule.

Shanks, 62, requested early retirement, citing reaction to his timberland deal as a major factor.

The transaction involved the purchase of land by Shanks with borrowed funds and subsequent sale of the timber cutting rights to the Georgia-Pacific Corp., a plywood manufacturer.

Shanks said this transaction, which would have resulted in a $409,000 income tax saving for him over a five-year period had been "misrepresented and misunderstood."

The death rate among America policyholders of ordinary life insurance for 1960 is estimated at 6 for every 1,000 persons. This is less by a small fraction than 1959, and represents a decrease of about one-fifth over the last 40 years.

Lopez Says Extra Games Change Pennant Race

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The uncertainties of a 10-team league and an expanded schedule are matters which have to be worked out in the upcoming American League pennant race by the Chicago White Sox board of strategy.

Manager Al Lopez Tuesday admitted that the eight extra games to be played and the new clubs of Washington and Los Angeles have changed the picture in the pennant race.

The Sox finished third last year, 10 games behind the champion New York Yankees and two games behind Baltimore in a 154-game schedule.

"New York and Baltimore are the teams to beat," said Lopez "but I look for both Cleveland and Detroit to be stronger."

Lopez said he believed a team must have more pitching and good bench strength to offset the labors of playing eight additional games.

"I think we have a good bench and the deal we made in getting Juan Pizzaro and Carl McLish has strengthened our pitching. McLish, Pizzaro, Early Wynn, Bob Shaw, Billy Pierce, Frank Baumann and Herb Score give us seven starting pitchers. And we also have Russ Kemmerer. We may have to transfer one or two to the bullpen to help Turk Lown and Gerry Staley but we'll cross those bridges when we come to them."

In getting Pizarro and McLish for third baseman Gene Freese in a three-way deal with Cincinnati and Milwaukee, the Sox left their third base post wide open.

"I think J. C. Martin can do the job at third," said Lopez "All our scouts report that he can't miss. He's big, strong, a good hitter and shouldn't have trouble in the field."

Lopez also commented on McLish's 4-14 record with Cincinnati last season after winning 18 games at Cleveland. "The Cincinnati ball park, like many others in the National League, is small. Cal doesn't strike out too many men. He lets them hit the ball. We have bigger parks in the American League and I'm sure our defense will help him become a winner again."

Contrary to what one might expect, the Sox are hoping that the new teams in Washington and Los Angeles will be able to win ball games instead of turning into patsies.

"If we find them easy to beat, so will the other contenders," said Lopez. "I hope they win their share of games and in doing so will help knock down the Yankees, Orioles, Cleveland and other clubs. I still believe that to win a pennant you have to beat the contenders.

"We beat the Yankees and Cleveland to win the pennant in 1959. We didn't do it last year and had to settle for third place."

Can the White Sox win the pennant in 1961? "Absolutely," said Lopez.

Dr. Tom Dooley Has Recurrence Of Chest Cancer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Thomas Dooley, jungle physician in Laos, has a recurrence of the primary cancer which was discovered in his chest wall in August 1959, his brother, Malcolm, said Tuesday.

For the past 14 days, Malcolm Dooley said, Dr. Dooley has been undergoing examination at Memorial Hospital where he was operated upon originally.

Malcolm said the results show that cancer has caused the excruciating pain which forced his hospitalization in Hong Kong in November and his return to the United States in December.

Dr. Dooley, a St. Louis ex-Navy doctor, became interested in Indochina while serving there during World War II and determined to do something for the people there.

With proceeds from a best selling book, "Deliver Us from Evil," which told of his work with refugees from Communist North Viet Nam, he established a hospital at Nam Tha in Laos which he later turned over to that government.

FEED GRAIN STOCKS HIGHEST IN ILL. HISTORY

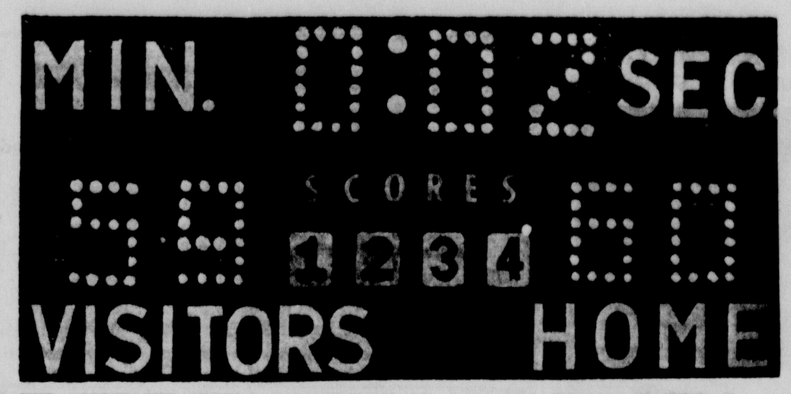

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Stocks of feed grain on Illinois farms Jan. 1 were probably the largest in the state's history, the state-federal agriculture departments reported Tuesday.

The combined corn, oats, barley and sorghum grain amounted to 15.5 million tons, a half million tons more than the former record high of 15 million tons on Jan. 1, a year ago.

The service said the record corn crop of last year accounted for a large portion of the record feed grain.

Growers had 520 million bushels of corn as of Jan. 1 compared to 505 million a year ago and a 10-year average of 383 million, the service said.

Total soybeans held on farms Jan. 1 was 44 million bushels, 16 per cent less than a year ago and 29 per cent above average.

Buckeyes Garner All 1st Place Votes In Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State, national collegiate basketball champion, made it three consecutive weeks as the undisputed No. 1 team in the latest Associated Press poll Tuesday, and there seems little reason to doubt the Buckeyes will stretch it to four weeks next time the balloting is held.

The Bucks received all 36 votes for first place for the third straight week in the fifth weekly poll, based on games through last Saturday. Monday night, Ohio State clobbered Evansville, 86-59, for its eleventh victory of the season. The Bucks have one more game this week, against Northwestern on Saturday.

With the unanimous vote, Ohio State got 360 votes based on 10 for first, nine for second, etc. Bradley, also unbeaten, remained in second place, well ahead of St. Bonaventure, beaten only by Ohio State.

Louisville, another major unbeaten team, ranks fourth, followed by St. John's of New York, Iowa, North Carolina, Duke, Kansas State and UCLA. Iowa moved into sixth, replacing North Carolina, while Kansas State moved into the top ten, taking the No. 9 spot. UCLA dropped to tenth after dividing a pair of games with Washington. Auburn, which had been unbeaten and rated tenth, dropped out after losing to Mississippi State.

The leaders with won-lost records and first place votes in parentheses with points on a 10-9-8 etc., basis (records through Saturday, Jan. 7)

Kennedy, Nixon Pay Tribute To Eisenhower

NEW YORK (AP) — John F Kennedy, the man who won, and Richard M. Nixon, the man who lost, paid tribute Tuesday to the man whom they both wanted to succeed, President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

President-elect Kennedy paid tribute to "the grace and the courtesy with which power has been moved from the Eisenhower administration to the new Democratic administration."

Nixon, retiring Republican vice president, spoke of "the opportunity to be in the presence of and to work with and under a truly great man."

The occasion was a special NBC-TV program, "Tribute to a Patriot," a series of filmed tributes to the outgoing President.

Besides Kennedy and Nixon, speakers included British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, Indian Prime Minister Nehru and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Nixon originally had declined to take part in the program, on grounds he was previously committed at the time he was due to tape his tribute. He also contended that in deference to Kennedy he wanted to stay off television for the time being. He changed his mind, however, and told a New York audience on the program:

"I have seen President Eisenhower make many hard decisions—decisions that could have meant the difference, for example, between war and peace for America — and they have been right.

"The the hardest decisions that any leader in a free country has to make are those in which he must decide between doing what is right, but possibly unpopular, and doing something that might be more popular from a personal standpoint."

Kennedy, speaking of the transition from the Eisenhower administration to his own, said:

"President Eisenhower has a historical sense. And, therefore, from the day after election until the present, he has made every effort to make it easier for those of us who are assuming responsibility in January—make it easier for us to meet that burden."

Haitian Regime Renews Conflict With Catholics

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The Haitian government, renewing its conflict with the Roman Catholic Church, Tuesday closed a church newspaper, deported the nation's highest ranking church authority, and ordered four other priests expelled.

Police put the Most Rev. Remy Augustin aboard an Argentina-bound plane after holding him under house arrest 14 hours.

Bishop Augustin, the second prelate to be expelled, had been arrested in bed and was not even allowed to take along a dental plate.

The government later issued a decree for expulsion of four priests rounded up earlier in the day. They are Fathers Paul Bellec, vicar general of the archbishopric; Francois le Nir, its general secretary; Jean Baptiste Bettebourg, rector of Saint Martial, Port au Prince's largest Catholic high school; and Emile Callec.

Bishop Augustin, Haitian-born, had been running church affairs in this French-speaking Negro republic since President Francois Duvalier expelled a French-born primate, Archbishop Francois Poirier.

Deportation of the archbishop seven weeks ago drew a sharp official protest from the Vatican and almost certainly exposed the Haitians involved to excommunication. Excommunication means denial of the church sacraments and loss of fellowship with other Catholics.

Duvalier is a Catholic. So are most other Haitians.

The government is still trying to crush a university student strike movement begun last fall in protest at the jailing of a student leader suspected of being a Communist. This strike was a factor in the action against both the church leaders.

Haitian officials accused Archbishop Poirier of having given $7,000 to aid Communist-plotting students. He denied this and was backed up by the Holy See—in effect Pope John XXIII.

Unofficial sources said the government story in Bishop Augustin's case is that he had inserted a letter in the Catholic newspaper La Phalange asking for cancellation of a decree to crack down on student absenteeism.

The decree calls on teachers to give authorities weekly lists of students who are absent and holds parents and guardians responsible for those who duck classes.

NCAA Suspends North Carolina, New Orleans

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association Council handed out one-year penalties to three institutions Tuesday for violations of rules in connection with recruiting and paying athletes.

The University of North Carolina and Loyola University of New Orleans were put on probation for one year and their basketball teams were barred from competing in the national collegiate championships or any of the other tournaments that co-operate with the NCAA enforcement program.

The University of Arizona was placed on probation but no additional sanctions were imposed—a lighter penalty given in recognition of the co-operation of the Arizona administration in the investigation and its elimination of certain illegal practices even before they were reported to the NCAA.

North Carolina also received a strong verbal slap for slipshod accounting methods that made it impossible to determine whether more serious rules violations had taken place.

These three penalties, coming just after Oklahoma, Southern California and Tulsa had been removed from probation, brought to 53 the number of cases in which the NCAA has imposed penalties since its enforcement program began in 1952.

The committee on infractions which makes the preliminary investigation of reported rules violations, has looked into a total of 268 cases and has dropped 151 of them.

North Carolina was found guilty of providing excessive entertainment for prospective basketball team. In particular, the council ruled that Coach Frank McGuire and a semi-official talent scout in New York, Harry Gotkin, has picked up entertainment bills that appeared too big and had failed to account in detail for the expenditures.

These accounting practices came in for special scrutiny, although they didn't actually figure in the penalty.

Arizona's offenses included the payment of regular monthly sums to a number of football players by a booster club known as the "Tucson Towncat Foundation" and providing transportation for players from the East to take summer jobs prior to enrollment in the university.

Easing the penalties were the fact that the university itself investigated the cash gifts, ranging from $75 to $150 a month, ended the practice and reported it all to the NCAA and the statement of the university president that two coaches involved in other violations will not be re-employed when their contracts expire this year.

Loyola's violations were giving a scholarship to a basketball player by a process that didn't comply with the rules and then revoking it because he couldn't make the team.

The unnamed athlete was given a scholarship by Hank Kuzma then assistant athletic director and basketball coach. It was cancelled about a year later by William C. Gardiner, who succeeded him as coach.

NCAA regulations say that scholarships or grants can be awarded only by scholarship committees or other regular academic bodies.

Giants Hire Allie Sherman As Head Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants, turned back by Green Bay's Vince Lombardi Tuesday hired Allie Sherman as head coach of their National Football League team.

Sherman, an assistant coach under Jim Lee Howell the past two seasons, signed a three-year contract at an undisclosed salary.

"We went after Lombardi right after the close of the 1960 season but he told us his obligations at Green Bay would not permit him to consider the job," said Wellington Mara, the Giants' vice-president. "We had a mutual understanding when he went to Green Bay that he would get first crack at the job if it became available. We are certain that Sherman will make a fine head coach."

Meany Proposes Pump-Priming Economic Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO proposed to congressional leaders Tuesday an emergency economic pump - priming that would cost between $2 and $3 billion a month.

In sending the proposals to House and Senate leaders, AFL-CIO President George Meany said the labor federation believes "our country stands today on the threshold of the gravest economic crisis since the great depression of the '30s."

Meany offered an eight-point emergency program, plus a series of long-range suggestions.

The proposals largely restated prior labor union goals but included some new ideas. Chief of these was a suggested tax cut for small business. Reduced individual taxes were advocated as a prime method of increasing purchasing power.

Top Prospects To Make Braves' Varsity Aren't On Roster

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the best immediate prospects to make the Milwaukee Braves' varsity are not even on the club roster. They are pitcher Bob Hendley, and outfielder Mack Jones. Both are on the list of Louisville, a Braves' farm club.

Hendley, 21, won 16 and lost 9 last year and added five victories for the Colonels in the playoffs and Junior World Series.

The promising youngster could gain a spot on the starting staff, depleted by the disposal of Joey Jay and Juan Pizarro in a winter trade.

"Hendley could be our fourth starter," said General Manager John McHale. "The Big question is whether he's ready."

Jones is the boy McHale had in mind when he swapped center fielder Billy Bruton to Detroit last month. The youngster batted .309 at Louisville.

Among those on the roster, the newcomer with the best chance probably is Don Nottebart, a 24-year-old right-hander who posted a 13-5 record at Louisville.

Another good prospect is Ken MacKenzie, 26, who was 6-4 at Louisville with a 2.40 earned run average.

The remaining rookies appear to be in need of more minor league experience. A couple of fine future prospects are catchers Joe Torre and Merritt Ranew.

Torre, 18-year-old brother of first baseman Frank Torre, broke into organized baseball with a bang in 1960. He batted .344 at Eau Claire and won the Northern League batting title in addition to just about every other honor.

NEXT—New York Yankees.

Cardinals Sign Cicotte, Landrum

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday signed right-handed pitcher Al Cicotte and outfielder Don Landrum, both of whom were outstanding last season in the International League.

Cicotte had a sparkling 1.78 earned run average and a 16-7 won-lost record at Toronto. The Redbirds gave up Leon Wagner, Cal Crowning and a player to be named later to obtain the tall 31-year-old pitcher.

Landrum, 24, a left-handed hitter, came to the Cards late in the season for five players and showed good promise. For Buffalo, he batted .292 with 18 home runs, 75 runs batted in and 38 doubles.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

© Noel Loomis 1960 Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

XXVII

He awoke out of a sound sleep to hear Logan saying, "Wagner! Bart Wagner!" and Bart tried to force his eyes open. Logan finally touched his shoulder, and Bart awoke and swung to a sitting position. "At least you know how to wake a man up," he said.

"I got shot at once in a cow camp by touching a man first. That was down near San Antone when I was ridin' watch on a trail herd. I went over to this fellow—"

"Did Mrs. Lewis come home?" asked Bart.

"Rode through about 10 minutes ago. Said she traded horses somewhere up on the plains so she could get home tonight. Said she was expectin' you."

Bart pulled on his hat. "You told her I was here?"

"Well, no," said Logan. "You didn't say I should, and I—"

"Good." Bart stood up. "Have you seen the black lately?"

Logan squinted and scratched his ear. "No, sir, "No, sir, can't say that I have, right now. I'll send the kids lookin', though."

"Never mind. You know where Jones's camp is?"

"Yes, sir. You got the makin's?"

Bart gave him the sack of tobacco. "You go up to where you can keep an eye on Jones. If a party leaves his camp and heads toward the JB, come and tell me immediately—pronto!"

"Yes, sir."

"If you do your part, I'll see you get a whole box of cigars. If you don't, I'll wring your neck."

Bart found his saddle and the feedbag on it. He poured a handful of dry corn into the hard leather of the nosebag and rattled it a few times. He heard no trotting hooves, no answering whicker, and he walked in a semicircle around the house, rattling the corn.

Hepzibah looked out the door at him.

"I saw the black goin' south," she said, "soon after you went to sleep."

It was the first time he had heard her speak, and she had an unexpectedly soft and pleasant voice.

That was the direction of the JB, and he realized then that the black must have come to think of the JB as its home pasture.

Then Logan's voice came from behind him, breathless. "Five men," he said, "saddled up and went south at a lope."

Bart swung on him. "The black is gone! Have you got a horse?"

"Sort of an old plowhorse," said Logan. "You want I should send fer him?"

"Yes!" Bart shouted.

* * *

Sampson's greatest virtue was his size. He could not be kicked into a lope or a gallop, but he fell into a rough trot that covered a fair amount of ground, and he kept it up for almost two hours without stopping. Then Bart saw the light in the window of the JB, and slowed down. He didn't think they would have a guard, for they all would want to see whatever Jones intended.

He got off of Sampson and tied the horse to a limb near old Ben's grave. He settled his gun belt on his hips and walked quietly around the house at a distance. He heard loud laughter, but kept a tight rein on himself. At the back he counted, against the starry sky, five saddle horses tied to the corral. He pulled in slowly, got close to the door, and listened.

"I think she'd look better standing on the table," said Murphy's voice, and Bart recognized the heat in his taut voice.

At that moment he hit the door with his foot and his shoulder, charged in with a six-shooter in each hand.

He held one .44 on Jones, the other in the general direction of Stud Murphy.

Catherine stood barefooted on the table.

Bart said softly, "Step down from the table, Catherine."

Jones's voice was hoarse, almost choked. "This is none of your business, Wagner!"

"It is now," said Bart.

Catherine fled behind the curtain. At that moment Stud Murphy drew his six-shooter to cover Bart, but did not fire, and Bart kept his one .44 aimed at Jones. "Tell him to drop it," he said.

Some hope flickered in Jones's eyes—a hope that his consuming desires might not be frustrated after all. He said, "He can pull the trigger as quick as you can."

* * *

Bart smiled tightly. "But not quick enough. Before I die, I'll pull mine. And you'll die too. Tell him to put it up."

Jones's mouth worked, and Bart guessed he was having quite a battle with himself.

"Murphy has a gun on your back."

"I figured he would have. He could put five bullets in me, but I'd still be able to pull the trigger."

"I'm willing to bet you can't."

"That bet is easy to call," said Bart. "I'm raising you—your own life. It's up to you."

Jones stared at him for a long time. He looked into the black hole of the .44 pointing at his heart.

Revenue Staff Ready To Assist Taxpayers

The Springfield Internal Revenue District has completed plans to assist taxpayers in filing their 1960 income tax returns, district director Jay G. Philpott announced Wednesday.

The district consists of 76 counties in the southern two-thirds of the State of Illinois. Throughout the Springfield district there will be 51 locations at which Internal Revenue personnel will be specially assigned to furnish 1960 tax forms, answer tax questions, and render other necessary assistance. At the 22 permanent duty stations there also will be facilities to handle telephone inquiries.

"We believe that most taxpayer questions can be handled by telephone thus saving the taxpayer the inconvenience of traveling to the revenue office and waiting in line," the district director said.

To best serve the public every Friday has been set aside as "Taxpayer Assistance Day" at all 22 permanent offices throughout the district.

Director Philpott urges taxpayers needing assistance to call on their local offices on Fridays since internal revenue officers are especially assigned on Fridays solely for the purpose of assisting taxpayers.

In addition, to provide better service, Mr. Philpott said that 29 temporary offices will be opened on specific days during the filing period. The assistance days for these temporary offices are shown in notices posted at each of these locations and these dates will be publicized by handouts distributed in the various areas.

"We are stressing the self-help method," Director Philpott commented, "because experience has proven that this method is efficient and enables the service to assist the greatest number of taxpayers."

Director Philpott called attention to the fact that at each of the 51 locaions plans have been made to provide ample assistance on the specially designated days.

Officials are expecting more than one million returns, of which more than 475,000 will represent returns involving refunds of approximately 45 million dollars. These refund returns are processed according to date of receipt. Those who file early will receive the first refunds, the director stated, but remember it takes time to process your return, verify the figures thereon, certify it for refund, and issue the check. Therefore, allow us the necessary time to do these things after you file your return.

Location

The Jacksonville location for Internal Revenue Service is the local Post Office Building with personnel available each Friday through April 17th. The phone is CH 5-4519.

In Beardstown, also the Post Office Building on Jan. 30; Feb. 13 and 27; March 27 and April 10th.

'Pigs Against Polio' Operation Started

It's "Pigs Against Polio" in Morgan county, where farmers are to be rallied to a campaign to help the New March of Dimes in January.

"Operation Pork Chop" will be one of the many activities of the current New March of Dimes drive during the month of January.

Seeking a way to give rural people a better opportuinity to contribute to the fight against three crippling diseases—polio, birth defects and arthritis — the Morgan county volunteers adopted an idea conceived by J. Robert Smith of Carmi who is Illinois State chairman of the New March of Dimes.

In each township of the county a popular farmer is being selected to serve on an "Operation Pork Chop" committee. Each member will contact other farmers in his township, asking them to donate one little porker or market-size hog to the March of Dimes.

Throughout January these farmers will take their hogs to market, sell them, and turn the proceeds over to the March of Dimes. The amount received for the hogs will be tax-deductible.

Officials of the Woodson Sale Barn at Woodson have agreed to cooperate with the March of Dimes campaign by selling any little porker brought there during the three remaining Fridays in January without charge. Mid-West Order Buyers have also agreed to handle any market-size hogs without any fees.

"Thousands of hog farmers in Illinois can give one hog and never miss it, but those pigs can mean much to the March of Dimes," Smith commented. "Best of all," he said, "the farmer would get real fun and satisfaction in giving just one hog to such a worthy cause."

Mrs. Ray McKinley, chairman of the Morgan county campaign, is busily engaged contacting farmers throughout the county to serve on the "Operation Pork Chop" committee.

STALLION BITES YOUNG TRAINER AT PIKE STABLE

PITTSFIELD—Despite an unfriendly encounter with a prize Arabian stallion and subsequent painful injury Pittsfield high school senior George Sharp, 18, still vows he likes horses.

Sharp, the son of a Washington, D. C. doctor, makes his home at the Khel Abara Stables, in the west edge of Pittsfield, where he and Victor Kerr train Arabian horses.

Monday when young Sharp was leading the stallion the animal turned and bit the trainer's arm just below the elbow.

Pair Nabbed For Confidence Game At Station Here

A pair of fast-talking strangers are alleged to have worked a short change game at the Standard Oil service station, South Main and Morton avenue, early Wednesday morning.

The two men purchased some flashlight batteries from Dean Williams, attendant on duty, and then went into a routine during which they tendered several bills, winding up with more money than was coming to them, according to police report.

Jacksonville police broadcast a pickup request for the alleged confidence men.

At 2:45 a.m. two suspects were arrested by state troopers at the west edge of Springfield, and taken to jail there. Later in the morning warrants were sworn out by Williams against Freddie Jefferson and Richard Gilbert, charging them with obtaining $20 by confidence game.

The warrants were obtained in the court of Justice Charles Warzar. The suspects will be brought to the county jail to await arraignment.

The car in which the defendants were traveling bore an Iowa license, but they are said to be Springfield residents.

Republicans Plan Activities For New Year

Officers of the Morgan County Young Republican Club were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dean Jarrett Saturday evening for a planning session of activities for the new year.

Officers present were: William Dean Jarrett, president; Martha Thomason, Peggy Jess and John B. Martin, vice presidents; Ronald Kesinger, secretary and Mary Jackson, treasurer.

The group made plans for activities prior to the city primary election and the city general election. Plans for a dance on February 25 to introduce all Republican candidates for city offices will be announced soon.

A concentrated effort to obtain new memberships will be made during the next three weeks.

The executive committee voted to start a special campaign fund for use in the 1962 elections.

Refreshments and party favors followed the meeting.

Will Silk Hat Cost Senator Election Votes?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Will a voter look down his nose at a senator who wears a high silk hat?

More to the point, will the fancy headgear cost the senator votes on election day?

Republican senators will have to decide for themselves and then choose before inauguration day. The party isn't going to advise them.

The crisis stems from an indication by the inaugural committee that distinguished guests are expected to wear formal attire.

A GOP conference pondered the situation Tuesday and decided to take no stand as a group.

"We decided to let every man decide for himself what to wear on the occasion," said Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader.

"There may be some who will wear formal or semiformal attire such as striped trousers and short coats."

Another Republican senator, George D. Aiken of Vermont, takes a dim view of formal attire, particularly when voters are looking on.

Aiken recalled that he wore a top hat, striped pants and a cutaway coat at a reception in Canada in the 1930s for the then king and Queen of Britain.

"There were about 400 Vermonters there," Aiken said. "It almost nipped my political career in the bud."

Republicans at the conference, Aiken reported, held mostly to the point of view that John F. Kennedy's assumption of the presidency Jan. 20 "will be an inauguration and not a coronation and we'll wear business suits."

50 Years A Secretary

Miss Louise Strandberg

On Wednesday, Jan. 11th, Miss Louise Strandberg reached a memorable milestone in her career in the business world. That date commemorated fifty years of service in the secretarial field for this petite and personable, efficient local woman. Miss Strandberg is pictured at her desk at the Central National Life Insurance Company, 110 North East street. The location is the same as where she started her first job on Jan. 11, 1910 with the American Bankers Insurance Company.

After graduating from Brown's Business College in Jacksonville Miss Strandberg worked for The Mutual Health and Accident Association as secretary and receptionist for Cole Y. Rowe, then secretary of the Company. After 15 years of service she was made assistant secretary of American Bankers Insurance Company and placed in charge as supervisor of the Agency Department in the Home Office, which included 14 employed young ladies.

Later she worked as receptionist for Dr. Mary Louise Newman, obstetrician and gynecologist. Following this venture Miss Strandberg accepted a position as secretary-treasurer for the Valley States Life Association.

When rationing came along she was offered position as sugar clerk for Morgan county and later became chief price clerk of the Morgan County Office of Price Administration, during World War Two, holding this position until the closing of the rationing offices here.

With Circuit Clerk

After a short rest Miss Strandberg accepted a position as Deputy Circuit Clerk in the office of Philip E. Bradish at the Morgan County Court House. For ten years she enjoyed the intricate and detailed work earning the reference 'that skilled typist in the Circuit Clerk's office.' During most of her service in the Clerk's office instruments had to be typed into large recording books, but a few years before leaving, in 1957, a photostat machine was installed and the work was lightened greatly.

Returns To First Love

When Miss Strandberg left the Court House in April of 1957 she returned to her 'first love,' the insurance business, as supervisor of production records for Central National Life Insurance Company. She organized the present Weekly Producers Club, a throw-back to a similar organization once in operation by the American Bankers, in which steady agent members produce new business weekly.

Miss Strandberg, along with seven other employees at the Central National Company, works for the second firm operated by father and sons of the Rowe family.

She recalls being late to work only once during her long career, that being during the bad sleet storm some years ago, when she was delayed an hour before reaching her desk.

This able, dependable businesswoman delights in the present day working conditions as compared to 50 years ago when her first paycheck was 18 dollars a month, then considered an enviable salary.
